The ASUN book exchange opens today in the north and south conference rooms of the Nebraska Union, in 103 Abel Hall and in 103 Burr Hall, East Campus. Hours Monday through Friday will be from noon to 8 p.m. and Saturdays, noon to 4 p.m.

The exchange is a non-profit activity to give students an opportunity to buy and sell used textbooks. A phone connection between the sites will aid in locating books.

The final date for the exchange will be Sept. 11. It will be closed Labor Day.

More than 300 classical and contemporary prints are available free to students this semester from the Nebraska Union Program Office.

Prints may be borrowed for one semester, according to Dennis Ellermeier of the program office. They are framed and ready to hang.

Interested students should bring their student IDs to the Nebraska Union main lounge Sept. 7. Beginning at 9:30 a.m. number tickets will be handed out and prints may be selected on a first-come-first-serve basis at 10:30 a.m.

Records are also available free to students from the program office.

The record lending library opens Sept. 9. Regular hours are 1:30-4 p.m., Monday through Thursday. Up to two records at a time may be checked out for a two-week period.

The Nebraska Union Program Office foreign film series features 15 films this year.

Tickets for the series are $8.80 for people associated with other schools, and $11.90 for all others.

The films will be shown twice nightly, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings at Sheldon Art Gallery.

Tickets are available at the Nebraska Union south desk or from foreign film committee members.

REAL LEATHER~

in the good

Yep, they really built things to last in the "good old days" — Whether it be autos, homes, clothes, or shoes! Reason the shoes wore so well was because they were made of "LEATHER", and handcrafted by shoe-makers who cared.

Times haven't changed a bit when it comes to Backstage Shoes . . . still made of Leather and still built by experienced shoe makers. If you like comfortable, Handsome, Long wearing shoes, see us! Over 100 styles on display.

Leather is natural . . . Why be plastic.
