

Odds-makers see Webfeet plucked by Nebraska

The Oregon Ducks arrive in Lincoln today as they prepare to battle heavily-favored Nebraska. Game time Saturday is 1:30 p.m.

Odds-makers have established the Huskers as 24-point favorites based undoubtedly on Oregon's dismal 2-9 record last year. However, the Ducks figure to be a vastly improved team this year as 14 starters return. Unfortunately for Don Read's squad all signs indicate Nebraska will be improved also.

The 1974 version of the Big Red is loaded with potential. Whether or not Tom Osborne can fit together the pieces of this explosive puzzle is a question all Nebraskans are eager to find out.

Duck coach Read says of the Huskers: "We have tremendous respect for them. They are a very, very good football team with no obvious weaknesses and outstanding balance. We'll have to be at our best."

A sellout of 76,000 is expected for the game.
