

"The Big Game Isn't Everything, There's Superscope Stereo!"

With that Red Tide sweeping toward the stadium Saturday, it's hard to believe that there are a few thrills in life other than Nebraska football. Modest in comparison, but thrills nevertheless. Like the sound of Superscope Stereo which, if need be, we can relate to your football lust.

If you stop at either Stereo Studio, downtown or Gateway, and request a demonstration of Superscope stereo, we'll give you the 1974 College & Pro Football Guide free. The Guide lists college and pro team rosters, schedules and standings. And you thought stereo had nothing to do with football!

SYSTEM 1

Here is a true component stereo system for a modest budget. Below this system's price, you will find many compacts that do not offer true component flexibility, and a few components whose design represents severe compromises.

Our System One's control center is the new Superscope R310 AM/FM Stereo Receiver. The receiver's amplifier section delivers 6 watts RMS per channel, which is adequate to fill a small-to-medium listening area with clean sound. The Superscope R310 has push-switches for power, Quadraphase, Tape Monitor and Loudness Contour. Input selector has positions for AM, FM, FM Stereo, Auxiliary and Phono.

The BSR 2260 AX Automatic Turntable has a full-size steel platter, adjustable anti-skating control and cue/pause mechanism. It comes equipped with a Shure M-81 magnetic cartridge and includes base and tinted dust cover.

Speakers are the Utah UT80, with 8-inch woofer/midrange and 3½-inch tweeter encased in a handsome walnut-finished enclosure.
