HENRY'S 1123 'R'

Tassels. . .

Tassels was founded 50 years ago in response to "the Cobs running around," Grice said. "Women felt slighted, so Mortarboard (women's honorary society) set us up." Corncobs was founded in 1920.

She said Mortarboard "let us go on our own" soon after, and the spirit organization became instrumental in founding a National Pep Club in the early '30s. The club later became known as Phi Sigma until it disbanded in 1961.

The organization has gone through five uniform changes from the days in 1924 when members wore red skirts, white sweaters and hats to today's blazer outfit, according to Grice.

In 1956, a year when most of the present members were preparing to toddle off to nursery school, Tassels was preparing to sponsor Homecoming events expected to draw over 30,000 to see displays, according to a Nov. 2, 1956 Daily Nebraskan report.

Although the members involved in the activities are less than those of that '50s heyday, Grice said that Tassels continues to do "very, very well." She added that the group plans to emphasize spirit for the minor sports more this year, with increased attendance from within the membership and the sponsoring of more activities at the events.

A Big 8 season-opening pep rally for basketball is being considered, as well as a card section for basketball games, she said.

Tassels is funded mainly by balloon sales, according to Grice, with additional revenue coming from the Homecoming concert. She reported that nearly $500 is made each game from the balloon sales.
