SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING MAJORS: Here's what you've been asking for — a palm-sized portable calculator that offers both scientific notation and memory!

Corvus 411. This calculator really puts it all together. You can throw away that scratch pad and store intermediate results (MS), recall (MR), and exchange contents of the display with the memory (EX). Just a touch and memory contents can be recalled for use in calculating subsequent problems.

Besides scientific notation (EE), the 411 features reciprocal ( $1/x$ ), square root ( $\sqrt{x}$ ), pi ( $\pi$ ), and an automatic constant on the basic math functions (+, -,  $\times$ ,  $\div$ ). Add to this an easy-to-read 10-character display (6-digit mantissa, 2-digit exponent, plus signs), full-floating decimal, algebraic logic, mixed/chain calculations, powers... plus automatic conversion to scientific notation when answers exceed  $10^{10}$  or  $10^{-9}$ .

The Corvus 411 operates on a rechargeable battery pack and can be used portably for up to 12 hours. Carrying case, AC charger/adaptor and owner's manual included. $69.95

CORVUS
ELECTRONIC CALCULATORS

Corvus is especially capable of producing innovative, quality calculators — and you should know why. Mostek Corporation, the parent company of Corvus, was first in the world to introduce the miniaturized, single-chip, integrated circuit which virtually revolutionized the calculator industry. As a leader in MOS integrated circuits, Mostek now extends its creative, original and productive technology to the consumer — through its wholly-owned subsidiary, Corvus.
