

Gordon Lightfoot concert Friday

don quixote
when the old knight rode his spirit faltered not were i to shoulder such a task i fear 'twould be forgot

when the old knight rode he was not afraid to bleed for me to take on such a load is more than i should need a peer of william shakespeare miguel de cervantes saavedra who knew a prison chain from a heart string was don quixotes' ghost or creator as you wish but from my drift of song shall come a bit of bad old spirit then whether it be strings or chains that bind you

I hope this finds you well through the woodland through the valley comes a horseman, wild and free tilting at the windmills passing who can the brave young horseman be he is wild but he is mellow he is strong but he is weak he is cruel but he is gentle he is wise but he is meek gordon lightfoot

Violinist at Smith Hall

By Dennis Ellermeier.

Lincoln will have a chance to sample the music of violinist Itzhak Perlman tomorrow night in the second program in the Cultural Affairs Performing Arts Series.

Perlman, a native of Tel Aviv, Isreal, began his musical career with a toy violin and showed an early aptitude for the instrument. At the age of four, he was stricken with polio, yet the year of convalescence that followed did not deter his ambitions. By age ten he was an experienced concert and radio performer.

In 1958 Ed Sullivan went to Isreal to scout talent for his television program and brought Perlman back for two performances on his CBS show. Perlman made the decision to remain in the U.S. and continued his studies at the Julliard School of Music.

His Carnegie Hall debut in 1963 was followed by extensive concert tours of the United States two years later.

Since then his playing has taken him around the world and to Europe annually.

He has also recorded several discs with orchestras, solo and in duo with Vladimir Ashdenazy.

Although the 8 p.m. concert at Kimball Recital Hall Thursday is sold out, the public will have an opportunity to meet and hear Perlman at an informal session tonight at Smith Hall at 8.
