UNL hosts conference

University housing directors, officers and students from eight states enter their second day of exchanging ideas on residence housing operations today.

"Benchmarks" is the theme of the 1974 Conference of the Upper Midwest Region and Assoc. of College and University Housing Officers (UMR-ACUHO), who will be presenting the successful benchmarks of their institution to 275 other housing officers.

"The goal is to further technical expertise of housing officials so that students will be better served," said coordinator Joe Zannini, who is UNL assistant housing director in charge of operations.

The conference features a 'swap shop', where officials may collect printed matter about the operations of other colleges.

There is also a media room containing examples of films and videotapes that are used throughout the UMR-ACUHO region.

Sessions throughout the two-day event deal with the academic role of residence housing, assertion training to bring out leadership qualities, legal issues and labor relations.

Residence Hall Assoc.
(RHA) president Tim Evensen said about 40-50 students from across the region will be in attendance to "exchange ideas".

"RHA has been doing fairly well this semester," Evensen said, "but I hope the conference will put a spark in RHA. Possibly I have been too much of a dictator, but up to now I have been putting forth most of the ideas and have not received any

Representatives have come from North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska.
