No close shave in Chambers' contest

By Rex Seline

He's not your typical barber.

No, State Senator and, of late, gubernatorial candidate Ernest Chambers doesn't fit the mold of your typical barber or for that matter your typical state senator or gubernatorial candidate.

Ernest Chambers doesn't fit any mold except possibly the one he used Thursday to characterize himself.

"I like to think of myself as the mythical bird, the Phoenix, rising from the ashes again and again," he said.

Distant third

In Tuesday's election, Chambers ran a distant third to incumbent Gov. J. James Exon and Republican challenger Richard Marvel, garnering only 23,331 votes or 6 per cent of the total.

"Everybody knew I was going to lose, except me," Chambers said. "You have to take a positive attitude. There was really no chance whatsoever for me to win the election. But then there's really no reason that a bumblebee should fly yet he does."

Chambers' campaign could not be termed traditional, either. He ended up spending only "slightly over" the $846.90 he reported to the secretary of state on Oct. 23. What was his reason?

"I didn't have a lot (of money) and I didn't solicit any."

What money he did have went into travel expenses, a batch of pamphlets, bumper stickers and his $250 filing fee.

Not packaged

"I didn't want to be a packaged candidate. Every vote I got was really for me, it wasn't bought and it wasn't for me flying a false flag," Chambers said.

He added, "Some candidates spent many thousands of dollars, sacrificed their principles, formed ties with special interest groups and still lost. With me they didn't vote for a public relations product."

He termed the results of the elections other than for governor "totally predictable." "Nebraska will not be hurt that much by it, nor will it be advanced," he said. "The election was not based on an intelligent understanding of the issues."

As to his own candidacy, he views it as a "learning experience." Although he didn't want to "get down on the people of Nebraska" he said he had "overestimated their perceptiveness."

"I suffered an overwhelming defeat but then most causes I undertake are lost causes when I take them on," Chambers said.

Candidates the issues

During the campaign, Chambers had said the main issue in the campaign was the candidates themselves, their character and integrity.

Chambers said Exon stated that "they (the voters) would get four more years of what they had had and I guess they got it."

Chambers will return to the Legislature in January to help it take a "much greater amount of the leadership in state affairs than it has in the past." He has plans to introduce some bills that "might be considered controversial" but refused to release details saying he wanted to complete the drafting of the bills to develop the correct wording.

Although Chambers' defeat was "overwhelming" he said he's "never going to dry up and blow away. People don't yet have a clear understanding of what I'm about. I haven't died and I'm not going to cry."

It Sounds Incredible

BUT EVELYN WOOD GRADUATES CAN READ

THE EXORCIST IN 58 MINUTES

At That Speed, The 403 Pages Come Across With More Impact Than The Movie.

You can do it, too. So far over 550,000 other people have done it. People who have different jobs, different IQs, different interests, different educations have completed the course. Our graduates are people from all walks of life. These people have all taken a course developed by Evelyn Wood, a prominent educator. Practically all of them at least tripled their reading speed with equal or better comprehension. Most have increased it even more. Think for a moment what that means. All of them—even the slowest—now read an average novel in less than two hours. They read an entire issue of Time or Newsweek in 35 minutes. They don't skip or skim. They read every word. They use no machines. Instead, they let the material they're reading determine how fast they read. And mark this well: they actually understand more, remember more, and enjoy more than when they read slowly. That's right! They understand more. They remember more. They enjoy more. You can do the same thing—the place to learn more about it is at a free speed-reading lesson.

This is the same course President Kennedy had his Joint Chiefs of Staff take. The staff of President Nixon completed this course in June 1970. The same one Senators and Congressmen have taken.

Come to a Mini-Lesson and find out. It is free to you and you will leave with a better understanding of why it works. One thing that might bother you about your reading speed is that someone might find out how slow it is. The instructors at the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Free Speed Reading lesson will let you keep your secret. It's true we practice the first step to improved reading at a Mini-Lesson and we will increase your reading speed on the spot, but the results will remain your secret. Plan to attend a free Mini-Lesson and learn that it is possible to read 3-4.5 times faster, with comparable comprehension.
