Sandoz to be bugged no more

By Rusty Reno.

While Sandoz Hall residents are at home enjoying their turkey this Thanksgiving, several floors in Sandoz will be sprayed to eliminate insects, according to Joseph Zannini, assistant housing director in charge of operations. A complaint was voiced earlier this week by eighth floor resident Susan Spohn that she has been bothered by insects since September.

Abel-Sandoz Hall maintenance manager Dick Kehler called the insects "water bugs", but Zannini acknowledged that a type of roach could be present. The immediate resolution to the problem, he said, was to use an insect bomb during Thanksgiving vacation to kill them.

Kehler said he thinks the situation at Sandoz is not bad, and added that the water bugs can be found in any residence hall. Sandoz is sprayed twice a year, he said.

"The spray we use kills bugs, and is effective for a great length of time," he said.

Spohn reported that she had found roaches in her drawers among her clothes and in her closet. She complained that she had filled out several repair slips to have the floor sprayed but nothing was done about it.

Zannini said that a can of insect spray is available at the information desk in every residence hall, but spraying is only a supplemental measure.

"Roaches are brought in by humans," he commented. "Roaches feed on carbohydrates, and usually in rooms that aren't clean."

He continued that one dirty room on a floor could breed roaches that would travel to other rooms. When roaches are found near doors, as in the case of Spohn, he said, it usually means that they are traveling from somewhere else.

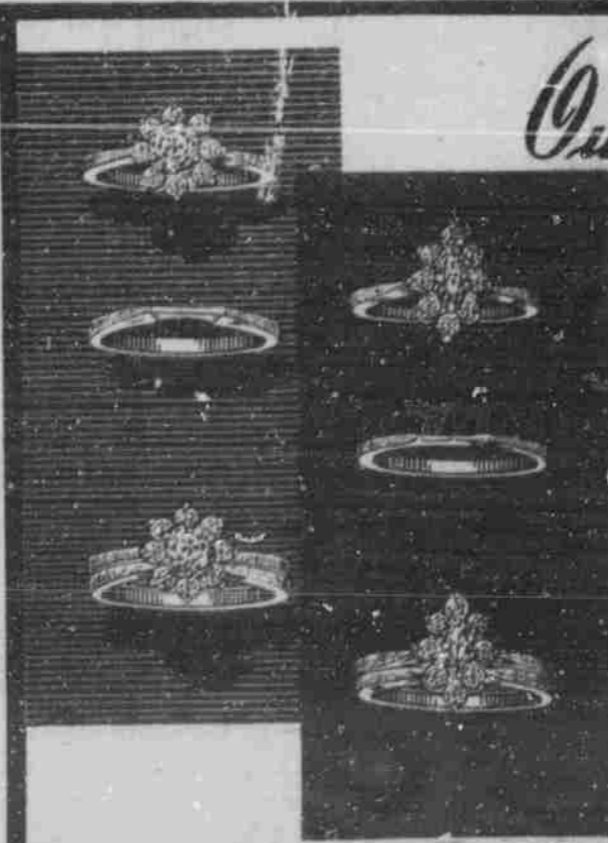

Zannini said he does not act on a complaint about bugs unless there is more than one report.

Pianists Cary Lewis and Philip Jones will be joined by the Festival Dancers of Lincoln in presenting the contemporary composer Olivier Messiaen's "Visions of the Amen." The concert will be held at the First-Plymouth Congregational Church, 20th and D Streets, on Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Kappa Kappa Gamma will sponsor a concert for the All University Fund Sunday at 8 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. Tickets for the concert, which will feature Herb Adams, Steph Kallos, and Kathy Morrow, are available in advance from Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Kappa Kappa Gamma, and at the door.
