BACKTIME 60 YEARS AGO

Nov. 20, 1914—"The last practice of the 1914 football season was held yesterday afternoon at one-thirty o'clock on the Nebraska field. There was no scrimmage, the time being devoted entirely to signal running. Immediately after the practice the squad was hauled to the Rock Island Depot, where they took the train for Omaha. They were feasted by the business men of Omaha last night, after which they began their journey to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where they will remain today, using the Coe College athletic field for practice this afternoon. They will make their way to Iowa City tomorrow morning."

"The opinion of the Committee, and every other indication, is that the sophomore Hop which is to be given in the Rosewilde Hall tonight will be a big success both financially and socially. The Committee has limited the sale of tickets to one hundred and ten couples to avoid too great a crowd, and has engaged the services of Hagensick's five-piece orchestra, so that those who are there will not only find room to dance, but will have the right kind of music also."
