Bill Swanson, NU vice president for governmental relations and secretary to the Board of Regents.

Former state senator takes NU lobbyist job

Bill Swanson, the NU vice president for governmental relations and secretary to the board of regents, says he's interested in all legislation affecting the University.

Swanson, an NU alumnus, was appointed by the Board of Regents effective Dec. 1, 1974.

Swanson lobbies at the legislature for NU and works with Nebraska's congressmen in Washington D.C.

"Many pieces of legislation which are not introduced at our request have an effect on the University," the 52-year-old Swanson said. "Often bills deal with agricultural, industrial, academic and other interests touching the University."

Swanson represents the entire University system, not just UNL, he said. He keeps in contact with the regents as secretary and helps the NU administration with legislative affairs.

His two-part position had been the separate jobs of director of governmental affairs and secretary to the board of regents, but the two offices were combined with his appointment, he said.

Swanson's name was suggested to the regents, he said, because of his experience at the Legislature and his interest in the University. He talked with several University administrators and regents before his appointment, he said.

Swanson has lived in Lincoln for 34 years and served as a legislator for six years. He is a partner in Woods Bros. and Swanson of Lincoln, a real estate and land development firm.

The $28,000-per-year appointment is not for any specific number of years, according to Swanson, but is considered a full-time job.

Swanson said he has "another interest in the University"—his only daughter Libby is a freshman at UNL.
