

Cancer discussed at Women Speak

Breast cancer needn't take the lives of so many American women, Joy York, Lancaster County officer of the American Cancer Society, told Tuesday's Women/Speak audience.

York said breast cancer cannot be prevented but in nearly all cases can be stopped from spreading if discovered in time.

A breast self-examination once a month is a simple way to make sure that "lives are not taken needlessly," she said.

Uterine cancer also unnecessarily kills women, York said. Forty-five thousand women contract uterine cancer every year and 13,000 die from it, she said. It affects women of all ages but blacks and Latin American women seem to be more susceptible.

Uterine cancer can be cured if caught and treated in time, she said. A PAP smear is used to detect uterine cancer. Women should be tested annually, she said. York said 25 per cent of American women have had PAP smears.

Athletes, media get tickets

PSC regulates and sets the rates of utilities. Commission members denied that the utilities' favors influenced their judgments.

PSC members do not receive tickets from the chancellor.

Friday, the commission adopted a code of ethics based on a code requested by the governor. The code states that gifts or favors which "might be expected to influence a commissioner's conduct" are not permitted.

Fleming said free tickets were given to the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, state treasurer, state auditor, secretary of state, clerk of the Legislature, and the state fiscal analyst in 1974.

U.S. senators are given two season tickets but the state's three U.S. representatives receive none. Each regent gets two season press box tickets and 10 season stadium tickets. Former regents, former chancellors, and current state legislators receive two season tickets.

Complimentary tickets are also given to the news media. The number depends on a newspaper's circulation and a television or radio station's broadcast bounds, according to Fleming. These are single game tickets and additional requests are filled with leftover tickets, he said.

Tickets are given to player's families, recruiting prospects, and former UNL athletes who have lettered at least three years, Pittenger said. Marching band members are admitted free and high school coaches are charged $1. These complimentary passes are paid for by the self-supporting athletic department fund, said Pittenger.

Single game tickets for the public are $7.25 in the stadium and $11 in the enclosed press box section. The lower half of the press box is reserved for the working press and seats directly below are sold to persons who contributed at least $2,500 for building the press box, according to Pittenger.
