Commissioners approve bypass despite environmental protests

Lancaster County commissioners voted 2-1 Tuesday in favor of a West Bypass for Lincoln which will use six acres of Wilderness Park for a four-lane highway.

The bypass will destroy a densely wooded park, and a day camp area serving 1,300 children annually, by dividing the west edge of Wilderness Park.

Since the 1968 Federal-Aid Highway Act prohibits the use of parkland for highway purposes unless there are no other alternatives, the destruction of six acres of Wilderness Park, a federally funded park, has been questioned.

County Commissioner Jan Gauger, speaking in favor of the proposed bypass, said she saw no need to revoke the original land-trade agreement and that the highway would eventually enhance Wilderness Park by the closing of West Van Dorn Street.

Commissioner Robert Colin voiced his appreciation for Lincoln's parks, but voted in favor of the bypass because he felt it was "in the best interest of the community."

Commissioner Bruce Hamilton said in opposition to the bypass that there is a need for one but that he is opposed to taking six acres of a natural environment.

"Wilderness Park is a unique asset to our community," he said.

According to Hamilton, those who say there are no alternatives are naive and he added that someone is bound to be hurt if a four-lane highway is built.

Hamilton said, there is a definite need for a bypass so traffic can be diverted around Lincoln, and a more efficient way of getting to the business district can be achieved.

In recompense for the trade of a day camp area, the board unanimously supported the acquisition of land north of Van Dorn Street as a priority addition of Wilderness Park. But the board said they would not commit any county dollars for the project.

The bypass route was opposed by the Bluestem Sierra Club at the hearing. Marge Schlitt, representative for the club, said the day camp area of Wilderness Park is used by organized groups as well as school children for nature study.

"We know of no feasible and prudent alternative, whereas we feel that it would be possible to find a reasonable alternative for the highway," Schlitt said.

A petition of 2,800 signatures was presented to the board by the Sierra Club asking them to reverse their temporary approval of the bypass.
