Faulty shelves delay Love Library move

By Lorraine Hughes

Anyone can be in Love. But beginning this fall, being in Love won't be the same.

Two years have passed and the Love Library addition at UN-L is almost completed.

Many things have delayed the completion of the addition Rudolph said. Although weather was not a big factor, there were problems with construction strikes and getting specified materials.

The biggest problem now, Rudolph said, concern faulty book shelves purchased from a company in New Jersey. The shelves did not meet certain paint thickness requirements, he said.

Two-thirds of the shelves were rejected. The library is negotiating with the firm to replace the shelves, and Rudolph said the only added cost factor will be time.

Rudolph said books in storage in other campus libraries will be moved to Love when the shelves are up.

One big move may involve the transfer of books currently housed in the Undergraduate Library in Nebraska Hall to Love Library. Rudolph said the library is considering the possibility, but study areas in Nebraska Hall will remain.

A survey conducted by ASUN in May indicated many students would be in favor of having books in a central location, said Rudolph.

According to Jim Say, ASUN president, the two main objections students raised to the move were limited parking space near Love and the opinion that books were easier to find at Nebraska Hall.

Rudolph said the results of the ASUN survey will be taken into account, but it will be several weeks before the final decision will be made.

'Jaws' is gripping

Jaws has made him Hollywood's newest wunderkind, but after two movies he hasn't proved anything to the extent of a Francis Ford Coppola or Martin Scorsese. I still like his year-old, first movie, Sugarland Express, a highly original, candy-coated Bonnie and Clyde that remains a much better film.

All this is to say that Jaws isn't the great movie, but it doesn't have to be. For director Spielberg, form follows function and function is never more than a workmanlike and unpretentious attempt to scare hell out of an audience.

Jaws is an ultra-Hollywood fabrication. It revitalizes vintage formulas and ultimately snaps shut on a public just waiting to be grabbed in the old collective unconscious and force fed into this newest form of entertainment angst.

The whole movie is just an updated Moby Dick, the only difference being that now the whale/shark obsession has been taken away from the pegleg Captain Ahab and set squarely in the lap of the wide-eyed moviegoer.
