

Assistance center to feature tapes, books, pamphlets on variety of topics

A new campus service to begin in January will help anyone desiring information about the UNL campus, the city of Lincoln, or just about any other topic. The new Campus Assistance Center will begin answering questions second semester.

According to Carol Lou, coordinator, anyone can phone or visit the center, which will be located in the Nebraska Union lobby in the present television lounge. The television will be moved to another part of the Union and its current space will be expanded to accommodate the center, she said.

Lou said the center will be staffed by Help Line employees, volunteers and employees yet to be hired. Help Line will move into the Assistance Center, but will keep its current 472-3311 number, she said.

"The purpose of the center is to have some place where people can get information without being sent many different places to get it," Lou said. "We will try to help everyone to cut through all the red tape they can," she said.

The center will be stocked with books, magazines and pamphlets on such topics as university culture, medicine, drug problems and abortion.

In addition, she said, persons with personal problems can get help by calling the center.

The center will contain a tape library with recordings on different subjects which persons can play in the center or have played to them over the phone.

Lou said the idea for the center originated with the Department of Student Affairs and will not result in an increase in student fees.

"In effect," Lou said, "the center is an extension of Help Line. It will try to help you with anything you want to talk about or anything you want to know."

Fraternities initiate pledge education

As part of fraternities pledge programs, the Interfraternity Council (IFC) has started a pledge education, according to Pat McTee, graduate assistant.

McTee said the program grew out of a seminar for fraternity pledge trainers to deal with what he called the problems of educating new pledges.

The seminars covered four topics, including what the second semester pledge program should consist of, problems of upperclass pledges, involvement of outside activities, especially IFC, and finding the main goal of pledge educators for each house.

The program features reliance of pledge trainers on each other with problems encountered during training, McTee said.

He said the seminar and program was planned and organized by Al Eveland, IFC president.

The Panhellenic Association is planning a luncheon for Sept. 25 which will feature Aileen Swofford, director of the Women's Athletic Department, as main speaker.

Jayne Anderson, coordinator of Panhellenic, said each sorority will be represented at the luncheon by 10 alumnae members and 5 collegiate members.

Information on women's athletics at UNL, gathered by Swofford will be relayed to the Greek houses through members attending the luncheon, Anderson said.
