Feminist Greer to speak Tuesday

Germaine Greer will speak on "Feminism and Fertility" Tuesday at 3 p.m. in the Nebraska Union.

Greer, sponsored by the Union Program Council's Talks and Topics Committee, also will conduct an informal session at 3:40 p.m. in the Union Main Lounge.

Greer has been described as radical and humanistic and is called the "saucy feminist that even men like."

In her book, The Female Eunuch, Greer wrote of women, "We know what we are, but know not what we may be, or what we might have been. . .women must learn how to question the most basic assumptions about feminine normality in order to re-open the possibilities for development which have been successively locked off by conditions."

"The first reaction people have is that a waterbed wouldn't be good for your back, that your back would sag. But because the waterbed contours to your entire body, it supports all of your body equally, even the small of your back."
Loretta Kelly, Lincoln
