

New IFC president to limit changes

By Ron Ruggless

No excessive changes are proposed for the Interfraternity Council (IFC) by the new IFC president elected Tuesday evening.

Doug Kristensen, an Acacia member, was elected president by the 27-member council composed of fraternity presidents.

"We have a very positive start here," he said, "so there is no reason for large 90-degree changes."

Kristensen, who will serve a year-long term beginning at the start of the second semester, added that he is encouraged by the council members and pleased with his executive staff.

Elected to executive positions at the meeting were: Bill Mueller, Phi Delta Theta, vice president; John DeWulf, Sigma Chi, secretary; and Dave Roehr, Theta Xi, treasurer.

"We plan to take the bull by the horns," Kristensen said, "and carry through and do as good as job as this year's council did."

The new IFC executive council will be installed Dec. 3, he said.

Diane Korinek, Gamma Phi Beta, was elected Panhellenic president Monday afternoon by the Panhellenic Council, according to Jayne Wade Adnerson, coordinator of fraternities, sororities and co-ops at UNL.

Other officers elected at that meeting were: Deb Backhahn, Alpha Omicron Pi, vice president; Cathy Davis, Pi Beta Phi, secretary; and Nancy Erskine, Zeta Tau Alpha, treasurer.

Installation of Panhellenic officers is scheduled for Dec. 2.

ASUN asks hold on construction

The Senate also passed a resolution asking for a freeze on all scheduled building activity in the Nebraska Union until the Union Program Board, ASUN and students could hold an open hearing to present their ideas on such construction.

The resolution stemmed from last week's meeting when the senate learned that a new Student Assistance Center would be placed in the space now occupied by the TV lounge in the main lounge of the Union.

Union Director Al Bennett said the plan had been discussed for three years and student input was considered when the Union Advisory Board (UAB) approved the project last May.

Bennett said there was no record of the UAB action in May because its minutes had been lost. He said the Union Board reaffirmed their action last night.

Bennett added that the TV lounge will be moved to the northeast corner of the main lounge.

Bennett said bids for construction of a 12 foot space extension for the assistance center have already been asked for and that he is legally required to respond to the bids within 15 days or else remove the bids.

He said he would have to hear more student input than he had at the senate meeting to stop the move.

In other action, the Senate defeated a proposal to ask the Fees Allocation Board to re-evaluate its procedures for granting the Daily Nebraskan student fees money.

FAB bars research funds

By Marian Lucas

The Fees Allocation Board (FAB) Wednesday voted 7-4 to deny $2,200 for operating, advertising and the administrator's salary for a Student Bar Association (SBA) sponsored Law Student Research Service.

SBA had originally requested $3,254.

Previously, the board questioned the legality of FAB allocating funds to support a professional business.

Board member Dennis Martin, who voted in support of the SBA request, said problems could be encountered since the Board of Regents might question research by a law student on a suit concerning the university.

Another problem, Martin said, is the question of FAB's funding of a Research Student Service administrator.

Tom Cullinan, administrator for the service, said the request, if granted, would be the only one since the service needs only enough funds to "get on its feet."

But the fee board voted otherwise and board member Jim Lewis said the service doesn't seem to benefit a large amount of students.

"I think it's important to believe that the funds we allocate are well spent to benefit the students," he said.

Ely Meyerson, dean of student development, asked if the research service would provide an expression for better education or just a service for lawyers.

FAB also approved a subcommittee paper which investigated the Career Planning and Placement Center.

The subcommittee recommendation questioned the origin of the center's funds. It advocated a meeting with Interim Chancellor Adam Breckenridge to discuss whether the center should be funded by fee board money or state tax dollars.

Hunger panel meets tonight

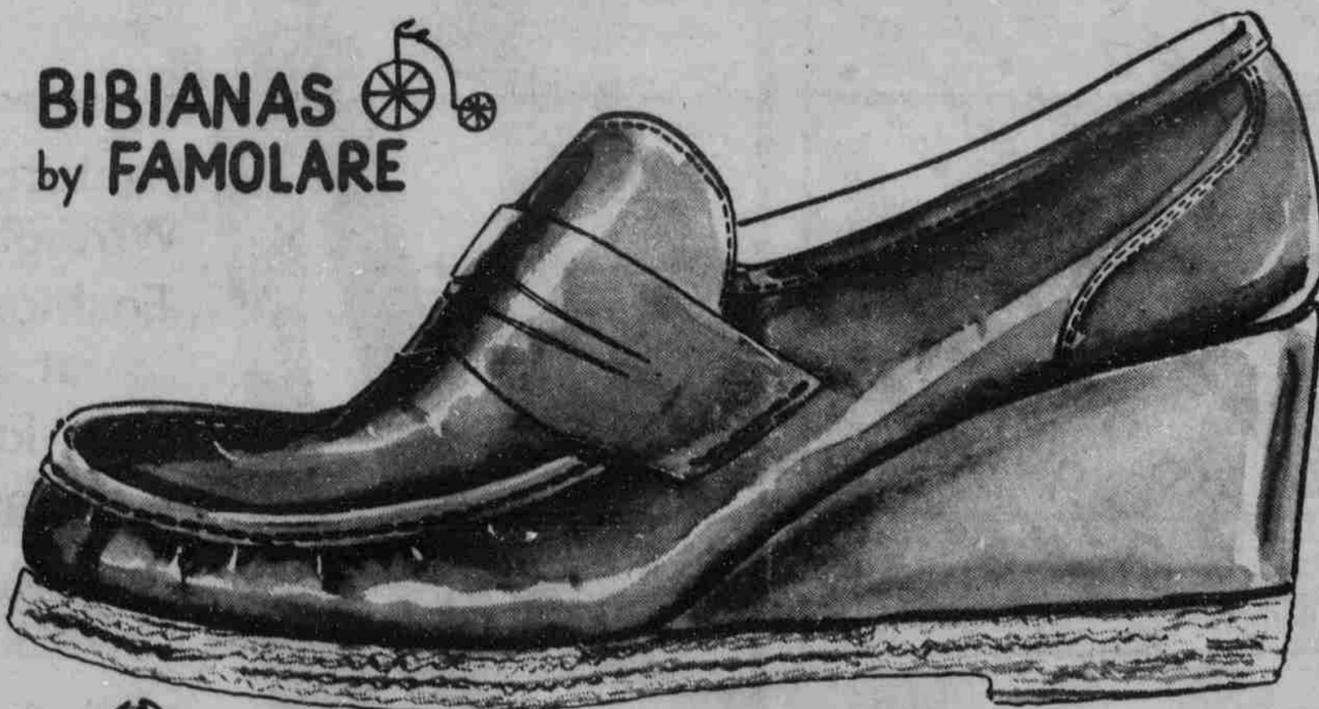

Concerned Pro-Life students are sponsoring a panel discussion on world hunger tonight at 7 in the Nebraska Union, Main Lounge.

John Daly, UNL biochemist, Dale G. Anderson, UNL agricultural economist, Robert Zeilger, officer of the Nebraska Task Force on Global Food and Population Concern, Omaha, and Arnold F. Schaefer of the Swanson Center for Nutrition, Omaha, will be the panelists.

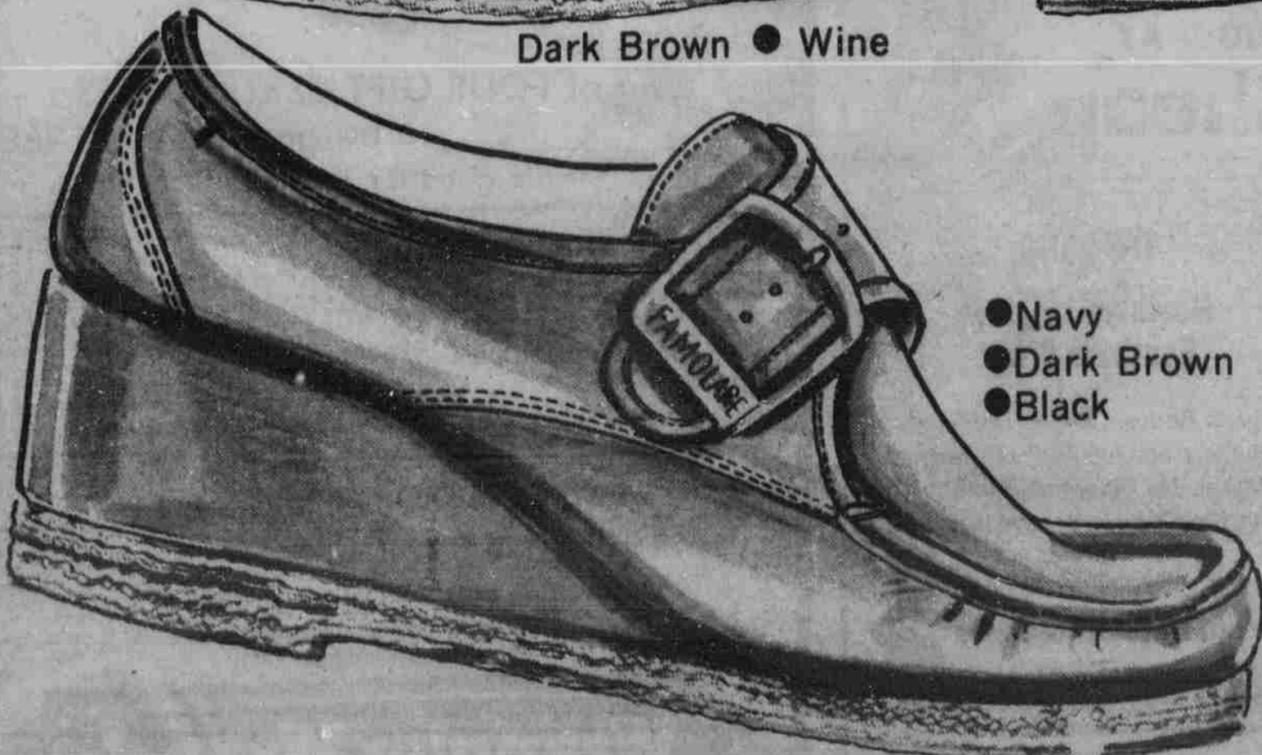

Topics of discussion include the events since the 1974 World Food Conference and action to help ease the world food shortage and help starving people.
