

Should you sell your textbooks?

One of the questions students must answer at the end of the semester is whether to sell their textbooks or to keep them for possible future reference. We hope the following information about the value of used textbooks will assist you in that decision.

1. Top Value.

Current edition textbooks required for classes at UNL for the upcoming semester are bought back at Nebraska Bookstore at 50% of the regular price. The top value price extends through the regular buyback period at the end of each semester and drops as the quantities for classes are filled.

2. Intermediate Value.

Current edition textbooks which may be used for upcoming semesters but which have not yet been ordered by the instructor are bought at speculative prices between wholesale value and top value. About half of these books will move up in value and half will decrease in value as we get more information on class requirements.

3. Wholesale Value.

Current edition textbooks no longer being used on the UNL campus can often be purchased by Nebraska Book Company for resale to schools in other parts of the United States. Prices on these books vary according to the national demand for each title.

4. Limited Value.

Old edition textbooks and most paperbacks fall into this category. Check our prices and then decide whether or not to keep these books for your personal library or for future reference use.

We pay cash for used books.

ASUN: access to Union necessary for all students

By George Miller

The ASUN Senate Wednesday night approved a resolution requesting that steps be taken to renovate the Nebraska Union to make it more accessible to handicapped students.

The resolution introduced by Sen. Frank Thompson, announces the Senate's support "of all handicapped students in their efforts to secure accessibility to all buildings on the University of Nebraska campus." It established an ad hoc committee to investigate the needs of handicapped students.

Thompson said that students, particularly those in wheelchairs, had told him they can't get into the Union by themselves and are unable to attend meetings held in the Union. He said Union Director Allen Bennett told him it would cost approximately $70,000 to completely renovate the building for the handicapped.

Thompson said federal money is available to universities for renovations of this sort.

Sens. Thompson, Karen Dress, Joe Roh and Tony Williams were appointed to the ad hoc committee.

The Senate also passed a resolution urging the UNL Administration not to increase student fees without approval from the student body. The resolution opposed a student fees increase until after more information about such an increase is made available to the students.

Sen. Susie Reitz, who introduced the resolution, said Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Kenneth Bader had indicated to ASUN, the Council on Student Life

(CSL) and the Fees Allocation Board (FAB) that student fees may be increased in the near future for the new East Campus Union to be constructed as scheduled, and that this was the only reason given for the possible increase.

She said the university administration would have to come up with good reasons for a fee increase.

ASUN President Jim Say said the Board of Regents have the final authority to raise student fees.

Jack Baier, assistant dean of student development said that bonds for the East Union were financed by approximately $5 million from a reserve fund for the City Campus Union in 1973.

He said the NU Board of Regents used this money to finance the East Campus Union instead of raising student fees in 1973.

Baier said that bondholders were told by the Regents that the City Campus Union's reserve fund would be replenished when the East Union was completed. He said this replenishing would begin in 1976 and continue over a 25 year period. This would cost from four to five additional dollars from each student's fees, he added.

Baier said the money could come from an increase in student fees or could be re-allocated from other activities now supported by student fees.

Student fees now total $61.50 per student, Baier said.

The Senate also approved a resolution by Sen. Steve Goldberg to appoint liaison senators to attend CSL, Union Board and FAB meetings and give reports of the meetings to the Senate twice monthly.

Reception to honor grads

A reception for winter graduates, hosted by UNL Interim Chancellor Adam Breckenridge, will be Dec. 19 at 3:45 p.m. in the Nebraska Union Centennial Room.

This is the second year the reception has replaced the formal graduation ceremony, according to Dick Fleming, UNL information director. All UNL vice chancellors and deans attend the reception at which approximately 950 graduates will receive diplomas.

Breckenridge will greet graduates at the door and briefly speak at the reception. Fleming said the reception was received well last year.
