

CSL tables talk on rules and procedural changes

By Liz Crumley

After an hour-and-a-half of discussion, the Council on Student Life (CSL) tabled discussion on proposed changes to their rules and procedures.

The proposal was developed by ASUN Pres. Jim Say, other ASUN senators and four CSL student members, including Paul Morrison, ASUN second vice-president, former Sen. Carolyn Grice, and "rescinded" members Chip Lowe and Judith-Anne Sadler.

The proposal includes provisions for CSL membership and membership selection, terms of office and CSL's powers and responsibilities which are similar to the approved NU Board of Regents Bylaws concerning CSL.

However a new provision was added concerning consideration of CSL's proposals and meetings.

It stated that an approved CSL recommendation be submitted to the Faculty Senate, ASUN Senate and "those groups which may be directly affected by the action." A copy still will be sent to the UNL chancellor.

These groups will read recommendations pertaining to them and either approve or submit their altered recommendations to the chancellor.

The purpose of the proposal, according to Morrison, is to accomplish what the ASUN Senate would like to see changed in CSL. This will provide ASUN Senate and Faculty Senate the opportunity to review what CSL does, he said.

The need for an improved line of communication between the three groups also was cited as a reason for the proposal.

There also was a provision giving organizations the right to recall their appointees. Recall would be based on previously stated procedures agreed upon by the appointees, according to the proposal.

Morrison said he would like to see a sentence added allowing the procedures to be subject to interpretation by a judicial body.

However CSL faculty member, Dan Steller, said that he thinks recall procedures should be defined by the appointive body and therefore have no place in CSL's rules.

Bob O'Neal, CSL student member, also disagreed with the proposal, saying that he thinks it is a "paper tiger" and will not carry much weight.

The Student Court is now considering a suit involving CSL and ASUN Senate rescinded members and O'Neal said he didn't think CSL should act before a decision is given.

A special CSL meeting was called for next Tuesday, at 7 p.m. for discussion of a Housing Policy Committee (HPC) task force report.

The report made seven recommendations including extended 24-hour visitation options and coeducational living and legalization of alcohol on campus with certain restrictions.

Tommeraasen will refuse NIU job

Miles Tommeraasen, UNL vice-chancellor for business and finance, said Tuesday he will not accept the position of provost and vice-president for student affairs at Northern Illinois University (NIU) if it is offered to him.

Tommeraasen said he is one of six candidates being considered. The position has been vacant since the summer of 1974 when Richard Bowers left to become University of Montana president.

"I had misgivings at the beginning when they asked me to come speak with them," Tommeraasen said. He said indication has come from the selection committee that the NIU position would involve work in academic areas rather than the management type of work he does at UNL.

Before his current job, Tommeraasen was assistant dean of the UNL College of Business Administration.

Tommeraasen also said he was concerned that NIU did not have as wide a curriculum as UNL. He said that NIU has no Law or Dental College and limited graduate studies.

Tommeraasen said he was told when he visited NIU in early December that the selection process would continue through January.

Other universities have called with job offers since the NIU interview, Tommeraasen said, but he declined to list them. He said he is not now discussing job possibilities with any of the schools.

Sweet Chariot.

I'm an Air Force officer and this is my sweet chariot. When I visit home people are happy to see me. And proud. They say I'm doing my part in the community by showing the young people and the adults that you really can make it. You really can get your share of the good life.

I also feel good about my position in the Air Force community. I'm a leader there, too. I'm someone the other brothers and sisters I meet in the service can look to. And it reassures them to know they have a voice in Air Force matters that concern them.

The Air Force needs more leaders...pilots...aircrew members...math majors...science and engineering majors. You might be one of them and the best way to find that out is in an Air Force ROTC program. There are two, three, and four-year programs. Scholarship and non-scholarship. Why not look into all of them and see if one fits your plans? It's worth it, brother.
