

getting ahead

UNL's computer programming team won first place Saturday at the North Central Regional Programming Contest at the University of Missouri at Rolla.

Team members included computer science graduate students Dan Corkill of Omaha and Terry Weynouth and Duane Dobesh of Lincoln, and Jeff Aman, a sophomore business major from Lincoln.

The team may compete for honors in October at what would be the first national contest, said Richard Newman, computer science instructor who accompanied the team to Rolla.

He said national contest plans have not been determined.

A winning team in a computer programming contest must complete the most programs in the fastest time. Corkill said accuracy is important.

Corkill and Weynouth also were members of the four-member team that placed fifth in last year's regionals.

UNL's closest competitor was the South Dakota School of Mines and Technology from Rapid City, followed by Purdue University Calumet Campus in Hammond, Ind. Other Nebraska teams competing were from Kearney State College, placing fifth, and the University of Nebraska at Omaha (UNO), placing sixteenth.

Healthy GPA

D. Craig Gailey is the 1976 recipient of the Eta Sigma Gamma graduating senior award, honoring the senior with the highest grade point average in health science. Gailey, an environmental health major from Salt Lake City, has a 3.7 average.

Ag officers

Mic Sibbel, a junior from Butte, has been elected president of the UNL Agricultural Economics-Agribusiness Club for 1976-77. Brian Anderson of Elgin is the new vice-president and Tim Hoxworth, a junior from Bridgeport, is secretary-treasurer.

Alpha Zeta leaders

New officers of Alpha Zeta, UNL's agricultural undergraduate honorary, were announced at the group's annual banquet last week.

Student Alumni Board

Twenty-six students have been chosen to serve on the Student Alumni Board, a student outgrowth of the NU Alumni Association.

The board, formed two years ago, sponsors such events as Red Carpet Days, which brings Regent Scholarship winners to campus for a two-day orientation; the senior yearbook; distribution of Nutshell, a magazine for college freshmen; Sound, a music guide; America, a travel guide, and Graduate, a magazine for graduating seniors.

New members are freshman Steve Hutchinson, Bellevue; Tina Mattson, Dallas; Susan McClellan, North Platte; Chelli Perrella, Sutton; Dave Roehr, Beatrice; and Bill

Skoneki, Bellevue; sophomores Bill Connealy, Whitman; Nate Eckloff, Minden; Mary Lee Glen, Auburn; Mike Horn, Council Bluffs, Iowa; Carol Kvasnicka, Hastings; Kathy Olson, Grand Island; Susan Powers, Lincoln; Ron Ruggless, O'Neill; Luann Tichy, Wilber, and Susan Ugai, North Platte.

Also on next year's board will be juniors Eric Chapman, Kansas City; Ron Heerten, Springview; Robert Joyce, Lincoln; Debra Lee, Alliance, Andy Mattson, Dallas; Robert Nelson, York; Judith-Anne Sadler, Kingston, Jamaica; and John Scharf, Curtis; senior Tony Williams, Omaha, and graduate student Danny Dappen, Nebraska City.

Skoneki will be board coordinator and Olson is recorder. Chapman and Sadler will represent students on the Alumni Association's Board of Directors.

Philip Layne, member of the UNL Counseling Center staff and assistant professor of ethnic studies, received a professional award from the American Personnel and Guidance Association's association for Non-white Concerns in Counseling and Guidance. He also received an association award for outstanding achievement in counseling and guidance.
