

Grace to assume dept. chairman job

Oliver Grace, UNL professor of veterinary science, is expected to take over the duties of retiring Veterinary Science Dept. Chairman Marvin Twiehaus, on July 1.

Recommendation of Grace as acting chairman of the department is subject to approval by the NU Board of Regents at their June 26 meeting.

A search committee is now taking nominations of candidates for chairman of the department, said Grace, head of the committee.

He disqualified himself as a candidate for the position, Grace said, because "I'm over 60, and administrative work is not what I want to do."

Grace said he expects a new chairman to take over in January, 1976, at the earliest.

During his months as acting chairman, Grace said, one of his main concerns will be the addition of new staff and faculty members for the veterinary science diagnostic center. The center will be one of three new veterinary science buildings on the east campus. The buildings will be completed within the next year, Grace said.

Another project during the next year will be planning for a five-state regional veterinary science college, Grace said.

The college will be built in Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana, North Dakota or South Dakota, and will serve students from those states. The site for the school is expected to be determined this summer.

If Nebraska is selected as the site for the college, it may attract more candidates for the department chairmanship, Grace said. He explained that possibly the department chairman would serve as dean of the veterinary college.

If the veterinary college is built in Nebraska, Grace added, the existing veterinary science department would probably be maintained as a research arm of the college.

News in brief

Arts Festival

The second annual Old Market Arts Festival is scheduled for June 25, 26, and 27 in the Old Market shopping district of Omaha. Many art and craft forms will be on display and will be for sale. These include batik, macrame, metal and wood sculpture, paintings, pottery, leatherwork, serigraphs and lithographs. Free poetry workshops and pottery lessons will be provided. A variety of ethnic foods will be sold by local church groups. The festival is open from noon until 10 p.m. on June 25 and 26 and from noon until 6 p.m. on June 27.

Fish Exhibit

A collection of rare fish which produce their own anti-freeze so they can live in the ocean depths near Antarctica has been given to the NU State Museum by the Smithsonian Institute. The collection is now on display at the museum. An audio-visual display showing and describing the fish is in the museum's Elephant Hall. The fish were captured by a Scripps Institute of Oceanography biological research team and given to NU at the request of UNL geology professor Samuel Treves, a veteran Antarctic researcher.

Farmers' Market

The Farmers' Market will begin its second summer in downtown Lincoln this Saturday, June 19. Persons having produce, flowers or homemade items for sale may purchase stalls to sell their wares in for $3 a day or $20 a season. The market will be open each Saturday through September from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on 13th St. between P and N streets. Stalls may be rented by contacting the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce.

Management Workshop

A workshop designed to meet the needs of women in management careers is scheduled for June 17 and 18 at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, 3300 Holdrege St. The workshop will open at 7 p.m. June 17. The workshop is sponsored by the UNL Department of Management and by the University Extension Division. Participants in the workshop may enroll in the independent study course, "Principles of Management for Women," to earn three hours of university credit upon completion of the course. Additional information is available at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, telephone 472-2844.

School for Alcohol Studies

The eighth annual summer session of the Nebraska School for Alcohol Studies is scheduled for June 20-25 at Doane College in Crete. William D. Leipold, clinical director of the Valley Hope Alcoholism Treatment Center in Norton, Kan., will be the guest lecturer and consultant for the school. Participants may take part in classes on highway safety, youth, alcohol and drugs and alcoholism counseling. The school is designed to provide experience for those employed in services related to alcoholism, with emphasis on education, prevention and service. Interested individuals should contact Gary Schoenrock at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, 3300 Holdrege St., telephone 472-2844.

Heart Disease Conference

Meyer Friedman, M.D., author of Type A Behavior and Heart Disease, will lecture at a one-day conference on the topic at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, 3300 Holdrege St., on Friday, June 18. The conference, sponsored by the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry and the University Extension Division, is open to anyone interested in the role of behavior and other risk factors in coronary heart disease. A conference fee of $20 will be charged to general participants. Medical doctors, dentists and psychologists will be charged $35 for the conference. The fee includes the cost of instruction and lunch.

Canoe Trip

UNL's Recreation Dept. is sponsoring a canoe trip to the Calamus River in the Sandhills region of northwest Nebraska June 25-27. Cost is $21, including transportation, equipment, food and insurance. The department is accepting reservations through June 24. The trip is open to any regular UNL student, faculty or staff member and is limited to 12 people. Those interested should register in person at the recreation department, 1740 Vine St. A $6.30 deposit is required to reserve space for the trip. For further information, contact Mark Ebel, outdoor recreation coordinator, 472-3467.
