Who owns the zebra?

Here's a game courtesy of former Daily Nebraskan news editor Dave Madsen. It's a puzzle in organizational thought. There are 15 givens, two unknowns. Who owns the zebra? And who drinks the water?

There are five houses, each of a different color and inhabited by men of different nationalities, with different pets, drinks and cigarettes.

- The Englishman lives in the red house.
- The Spaniard owns the dog.
- Coffee is drunk in the green house.
- The Ukrainian drinks tea.

The green house is immediately to the right of the ivory house.

- The Old Gold smoker owns snails.
- Kools are smoked in the yellow house.
- Milk is drunk in the middle house.

The Norwegian lives in the first house on the left. The man who smokes Chesterfields lives in the house next to the man with the fox.

Kools are smoked in the house next to the house where the horse is kept.

- The Lucky Strike smoker drinks orange juice.
- The Japanese smokes Parliaments.
- The Norwegian lives next to the blue house.

But who owns the zebra? And who drinks the water? You'll find out Wednesday in the Daily Nebraskan personals.

Perhaps you are wondering what the word at the top of the page means. According to the dictionary: "Dementia (di-MEN-sha), n.: Irreversible deterioration of intellectual faculties and emotional disturbance resulting from organic brain disorder—INSANITY."

Dementia will be a regular feature of 3rd Dimension and will include games and other weird things.

So. Forget that lecture you're supposed to be listening to while you're really reading this! Now Dementia University offers you a course leading to the degree of Master of Maze!

Begin at left, graduate at right—but if you skip the Senior Check, you don't get your degree. And don't worry if you have to retrace an earlier line—it happens all the time when you change majors. Good luck!
