

British author Schumacher to speak today

British economist and author E.F. Schumacher will speak at a luncheon in the Nebraska East Union today as part of the Prairie Project.

Schumacher's appearance and the Prairie Project, a series of conferences on the future of the plains states, are sponsored by several state and local groups.

UNL sponsors include Centennial College, College of Architecture, College of Business Administration, Dept. of Philosophy, Institute for International Study, the Institute of Agriculture and National Resources and Division of Continuing Studies.

Kearney State College, Doane College, Chadron State College and Nebraska Wesleyan University also are sponsoring the project.

Schumacher, chief economist of Britain's coal industry for 20 years, is the author of Small is Beautiful: Economics as if People Mattered. The book deals with his philosophy that the economic system should use a more human approach.

After the luncheon, Schumacher will speak to each of four separate conferences in the Prairie Project. The groups are: alternatives for communities, corporate policy in America, the future of the farm, and soil and water. Persons from other states and Canada are expected at today's conferences, according to Marie Arnot, coordinator of Community Development Programs. Schumacher spoke at Crete's Doane College Wednesday.

The Men Who Ate Michael Rockefeller.

Poor Michael. He was just trying to be friendly. Sort of a cultural exchange. How was he to know when he was invited to dinner that he was to be the main course. Or was he? OUI writer Lorne Blair travels to New Guinea to find out just what happened to Michael Rockefeller in the current issue of OUI magazine. His report makes for delightful postprandial reading. In the same issue, J. Allen Hynek, world-renowned expert on UFOs, talks about our shy green visitors in his first-ever in-depth interview. Later, OUI looks into Sex Therapy at Home in an assessment of the latest trend in sex counseling for shut-ins. If that doesn't turn you on, Paula will. And if not Paula, then Joan. And if not Joan, well, you need OUI more than we thought. It's at your newsstand now.
