KRNU will air Verdi

Giuseppe Verdi's dramatic four-act opera, Il Trovatore will be broadcast Saturday over the Texaco-Metropolitan Opera Radio Network. Il Trovatore will be aired on the UNL School of Journalism radio station KRNU at 1 p.m.

Singing principal roles will be soprano Renata Scott as Leonora, mezzo-soprano Shirley Verrett as Azucena, tenor James McCracken in the role of Manrico and baritone Louis Quilico as the Count di Luna. Michelangelo Veltri will conduct.

During the first intermission, Opera News on the Air will offer a special feature titled "The Strange and Novel Music of Trovatore". The feature will be done by Andrew Porter, music critic of the New Yorker magazine.

Facing quizmaster Edward Downes during Texaco's Opera Quiz will be a panel of music critics including John Ardoin of the Dallas Morning News, Paul Hume of the Washington Post and Andrew Porter.

During the third intermission the audience will hear a special feature to be announced.
