FAB votes to argue Court case

By Anne Carothers

The Fees Allocation Board (FAB) Thursday night voted to appear before the Student Court Tuesday in response to a petition to cut FAB's power filed by Dixon sophomore Lyle George.

FAB members will appear to respond to the allegations of the petition and to argue that the case is not within the Student Court's jurisdiction. They contend that the petition should have been directed to the vice chancellor of student affairs since FAB is an extension of his office.

George's petition charges that FAB is not an elected body and therefore, the allocation of fees is taxation without representation. It also charges that since so many organizations apply for student fees, effective screening of these organizations is impossible.

The petition demands that FAB be prevented from allocating fees to any organizations except athletic organizations.

FAB chairwoman Sherry Cole said she has talked with Richard Armstrong, vice chancellor for student affairs and Fritz Stehlik, Student Court Chief Justice and both expressed doubt that the case was within Student court jurisdiction.

Misnamed defendant

FAB member Mark Buchannan, said he felt FAB was a misnamed defendant but that this would be a good opportunity for the board to make some public statements about its position.

In a motion to not respond to the petition, Paul

Morrison said the petition had "nothing to do with student organizations and was in fact an attack of FAB." The motion failed.

The board agreed to submit a written report to the Student Court on Monday as requested by Chief Justice Stehlik.

Increase reports next meeting.

The Board also agreed to make subcommittee reports on the proposed fees increase for 1977-78 at the next meeting. Cole also said the board should again request that the Division of Student Affairs submit the report on projected fees increases to FAB earlier in the semester.

Cole said the board was hard pressed for time to make its report on fees increases to the Regents by the deadline because of the late Student Affairs report.

Allocation hearings for Women's Resource Center, the Daily Nebraskan, and the Student YMCA were postponed until next week's meeting which will be held at 6 p.m. Thursday in the East Campus Union.

The following tentative allocations based on recommendations made by the subcommittees were passed.

Organization	Recommended Allocation	Allocation made
Arab Student Organization	$ 350	$ 350
African Student Organization	$ 400	$ 400
American Indian Students	$ 5,700	$ 5,700
International Club	$ 700	$ 300
India Association	$ 950	$ 950
University Child Care	$16,500	$16,500

Greeks receive honors at banquet

Nearly 175 persons attended the Greek Awards Banquet at the Nebraska Club Thursday night.

The banquet was part of the annual Greek Week activities for UNL sororities and fraternities.

Lee Johnson, Sigma Phi Epsilon, received the John M. Abrahamson Award for outstanding service, leadership and scholarship in the Greek community from Jayne Anderson, coordinator of fraternities, sororities and cooperatives.

Sue Lechtenberg, chairman of the Greek Week blood drive, presented an award to Alpha Gamma Sigma fraternity for outstanding participation in the drive. Theta Xi fraternity received second place for the highest percentage of the unit members giving blood. Theta Chi fraternity was third.

Dave Roehr, Theta Xi, received the C. B. Schultz scholarship, and John DeWulf, Sigma Chi, received the Frank M. Hallgren scholarship. Both scholarships are awarded on the basis of scholarship, leadership and service.

Pi Beta Phi sorority won the Madeline Girard trophy for outstanding philanthropy programs this year. Helen Snyder, former UNL dean of women, presented the award.

Interfraternity Council President Ed Malone and Panhellenic Association President Jill Yost presented Gamma Gamma awards to 22 outstanding senior individuals in the Greek System. Honorary awards were awarded to Jack Baier, acting dean of student development, and Beth Kouba, Panhellenic graduate assistant.

The seniors honored were: Paula Damke, Zeta Tau Alpha; Deb Denbeck, Kappa Delta; Diane Korinek, Gamma Phi Beta; Deb Bockhahn, Alpha Omicron Pi; Nancy Erskine, Zeta Tau Alpha; Cathey Davis, Pi Beta Phi; Carol Peltz, Kappa Alpha Theta; and Becky Champion, Alpha Phi.

Bill Mueller, Phi Delta Theta; Ken Figgins, Chi Phi; Maurice Green, Theta Chi; Tom Maul, Beta Sigma Psi; Ron Heerton, FarmHouse; Mike Herman, Phi Kappa Psi; and Randy Ruebenthaler, Triangle.

Avery Loschen, Ag Men; Tom Howard, Sigma Nu; Gary Willets, Alpha Tau Omega; Lee Johnson, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Doug Kristensen, Acacia; Eric Chapman, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; and Joe Stavas, Delta Tau Delta.

Chi Omega sorority was announced as the winner in the Greek Week banner contest.

In addition, Acacia, Chi Omega, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Theta Xi, Delta Upsilon, Delta Gamma, Pi Beta Phi and Sigma Chi were honored for their winning Greek Follies presentation.

Anderson, in a special presentation, was made an admiral in the Great Navy of the State of Nebraska. Ron Smith, college of business administration dean, was the guest speaker.

Home ec college hosts students

The UNL College of Home Economics is expecting more than 2,500 young guests Saturday for the college's annual Hospitality Day.

The college invites high school seniors and their parents to the campus each year to participate in the day-long activities.

The event offers students the chance to become familiar with career opportunities in home economics.

There also will be faculty members and students present to discuss course offerings at the college. According to a college official, the event allows the visiting students the chance to become familiar with what UNL has to offer, so the students will be prepared for college when they arrive.

Besides discussing what the college offers, students can learn about grading, course requirements, housing and financial aid.

Participants will tour the Nebraska East Union and other buildings on East Campus, see home economics career exhibits and talk with UNL professors and students.

In addition, there will be a fashion show featuring futuristic and contemporary clothing. The clothes are designed and constructed by UNL home economics students and faculty members.

Clothing will be made from a variety of unusual materials, including tissue paper, macrame yard, needle point and a metallic headpiece.

In addition, a variety of spring fashions from various Lincoln retail stores will be shown.

The style show will be presented twice on Saturday, first at 10 a.m. and again at 11:30. Both shows will be at the Great Plains Room of the East Union.

Registration and exhibits will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the East Union.
