

Regents demand...

Lincoln Regent Edward Schwartzkopf said students should support student organizations and student organizations should support other student organizations.

Schwartzkopf then asked why the Daily Nebraskan did not support the Athletic Dept. He was referring to the Daily Nebraskan's sale of First Down programs for 10 cents, which he said cuts into the sales of the Athletic Dept. programs.

Christofferson and Greg Johnson, ASUN president elect said the Daily Nebraskan was providing a service to the students. Students cannot afford to pay a $1 every week for a football program, Johnson said.

Schwartzkopf, Kermit Wagner and UNL student regent Bill Mueller asked that the Daily Nebraskan be one of the student organizations reevaluated by the task force for their allocation of student fees.

John Malone, University of Nebraska at Omaha student regent told the regents to "stay away from cutting the Daily Nebraskan's funding. The Daily Nebraskan was recently heralded as the midwest's outstanding student newspaper and it's the best newspaper I have read."

Malone said the Daily Nebraskan receives $35,000 a year in student fees and is published four times a week. UNO's Gateway receives $46,000 a year and comes out twice a week, he said.

Fellingham said students are being asked to carry a greater burden of education cost.

"A constant rise in student fees cannot be tolerated without a resulting increase in the level and quality of student services," he said.

In other business, the board rejected a position taken by medical center physicians last week against their outside income.

The board had asked the physicians to consider a confidential disclosure plan for outside income from private patients referred to the center.

Grand Island Regent Robert Koefoot asked that the board initiate immediate implementation of the plan despite the physicians' rejection of the plan.

McFadden asked the board to consider the legal technicalities involved before implementing the program.

Neal Vanselow, medical center chancellor-designate, agreed with the confidential disclosure plan, Koefoot said.

The board also approved the appointments of Susan Welch as chairman of the UNL Political Science Dept., Robert Gast as chairman of the UNL Agronomy Dept. and Nick Stinnet as chairman of the Human Development and the Family Dept.
