

Fair to celebrate Denmark

The heritage and culture of one group of the Scandinavian people will be celebrated this year at the Nebraska State Fair.

Of the estimated 2.5 million Danes and Danish extraction in the country, about 60 per cent of them live in the Midwest. One hundred thousand Danes can be found in the Nebraska-Iowa region. During the State Fair, quite a few of them will be found right here in Lincoln.

Every Danish and Danish-American organization in Nebraska as well as six international organizations will be represented at the State Fair Sept. 2-11.

This is the second year an ethnic group was invited by the State Fair Commission in Lincoln, according to State Fair manager Henry Brandt. Last year the Czechs were honored.

Gary Eilts, director of fraternal affairs for Danish Brotherhood in American National Headquarters in Omaha, will coordinate demonstrations and activities.

Danish dances
Sunday and Monday the Minden Danish Dancers in traditional dress will give several performances of traditional Danish dances in the Open Air Auditorium. The group has been together about 15 years, Eilts said.

The same group who performed during President Carter's inauguration, the Dana Dancers from Dana College in Blair, will dance Sept. 10 and 11 in the auditorium. Sept. 10, Dana Choir, a group of singers from Dana College under the direction of Dr. Paul Neve, will sing traditional and contemporary Danish songs.

While everyone sits back to watch the dancers and singers, Danish handicraft such as rug making, needlework, fine china and tapestries, along with Danish food will be on display in the Exposition Building.

Danish food
Demonstrations on how to make "kringle" the original Danish "smorrebrod", Danish open face sandwiches and "aebleskiver," small round pancakes, will be given throughout the fair, Eilts said.

Lodges from Omaha, Lincoln, Grand Island, Minden and Ruskin will be represented, he said. Seven state organizations also will participate.
