The Husker women's volleyball team wasn't trying to do handstands at the Coliseum Saturday, but it did hand Drake University a loss in the season's opener.

Huskers chalk up 1st win

UNL's womens volleyball team successfully opened their season Saturday with strong set ups and power spikes to sweep past Drake University in straight sets. The Huskers downed Drake 15-5, 15-4, 15-8 at the Coliseum.

Husker Coach Terry Pettit said UNL played well for a first game.

"We haven't had time to work on team skills, Pettit said. So we just went out to have a good time."

Pettit praised the performance of Sue Leudtke, Ann Haberman and Connie Bloom and the team's offense. Setting is a major part of UNL's offense and it is especially important to improve those skills, Pettit said.

UNL has good athletes, but is not a good team yet, Pettit said. He said he has five or six athletes who could become team leaders.

Luedtke said she often assumes the leadership role because she is a setter. "My position on the court makes it easy for me to be a leader," she said. "I stand out there and keep the girls talking."

The team goal, she said is to win regionals. UNL has placed second at regionals the last two years.

Intramural sports to begin

Intramural softball is underway at UNL with intramural flag football just around the corner.

Most of the 149 softball teams have played one game, according to intramural coordinator Gale Wiedow.

Teams will play five regular season games. Playoffs begin Oct. 10 for teams that win at least half their games.

There are 38 more teams this year than last year, Wiedow said. Teams are divided into three leagues—independent, dormitory and fraternity.

The leagues are divided into divisions, three divisions in the dormitory and fraternity leagues and two in the independent league.

"The divisions are primarily different skill levels," Wiedow said. "They help us to facilitate enough teams for the number of people who want to play."

Intramural softball is divided into slow pitch and fast pitch teams. Wiedow said there are 11 fast pitch teams on campus this year.

A $20 entry fee for flag football teams is due Sept. 28. Flag football will be organized like softball. Last year, there were 169 intramural football teams.
