

University closes the doors for the Christmas vacation

In the next week the majority of UNL students will be packing their stereos, dirty laundry, plants and other necessities and heading home for the holidays.

The semester officially ends December 21, leaving only four days until Christmas. Most residence halls and Greek houses will be closed for semester break with exceptions made for students spending Christmas on campus.

The residence halls close December 22 at 8 a.m. The Selleck graduate section, however, will be available for those students who need a place to stay.

A $3.75 per night charge will be assessed for the rooms, according to Lisa Benters, a Selleck desk worker. Three locks on main doors will be changed, she said, so students remaining will have to pick up different keys.

Piper resident hall, a part of Neihardt Residence Hall, also will be open for Piper residents only, according to a Piper desk worker. All other halls will be closed.

Most Greek houses also will be closed, according to the Interfraternity council. However, a house mother or one or two students might remain during break.

The Health Center will be closed Dec. 26, 27 and January 2, as well as weekends. The emergency room will be open, however.

For those students going home: expect a letter from the university about January 10 or 12. Final grades will reach their permanent address destination by then.

Grades are due five days after the final examination has been given, according to the administration's record office.

Name excluded

Mary Jo Pitzl, a junior from Omaha, was selected Monday as assistant news editor for the spring Daily Nebraskan.

Pitzl's name inadvertently was excluded from the list of senior editors in Wednesday's paper.

Are you a victim?

If you've been denied a class in the Business College, you're not alone. More than 2,000 students have the same problem.

The Student Advisory Board of CBA doesn't want this to happen again. With your help, we can do something about it. The SAB urges you and your parents to write letters to the following, stressing the need for reallocation of funds.
