RICHELIE BROCKELMAN, PRIVATE EYE

Young private investigator Richie Brockelman (Dennis Dugan, pictured with guest star Lisa Eilbacher) is puzzled by all the interest in a "hunk o' junk" car he is hired to buy at an auction in 'Junk It to Me, Baby,' the second episode in NBC-TV's new series 'Richie Brockelman, Private Eye,' Thursday, March 23.

Brockelman, hired by Sol Gerardi (Nehemiah Persoff) to bid on a 1953 Studebaker, is nearly forced out of the bidding by two mean-looking bruisers until they bitterly exhaust their funds.

Brockelman delivers the car to Gerardi, only to discover that his client intends to have the auto reduced to a cube of tortured steel about the size of a bale of hay. Just as it is about to be crushed, the bidding twosome muscles in and seizes it.

CINDY

The classic Cinderella tale becomes a captivating comedy set in New York's Harlem during World War II in 'Cindy,' a gala special airing on ABC-TV, Friday, March 24.

Despite the war, it's an exciting time for a young southern girl who has come to join her father and his new family in New York. Prosperity has finally poked its head around the corner and everything 18-year-old Cindy sees is magic. However, after a less than cordial welcome to her new home by her malevolent stepmother, Sara, and sisters Venus and Olive, Cindy learns what it means to be a stepchild.

Still, she clings to her dream of attending the fancy Sugar Hill Ball. With the help of her eccentric friend Michael, Cindy attends the affair in a borrowed gown and meets handsome Marine Corps Capt. Joe Prince. At the stroke of midnight, Cindy flees, leaving one tattered sneaker as the only clue to her identity.

Charlaine Woodard stars as Cindy and guest starring is Clifton Davis (pictured with Miss Woodard) as Joe Prince.
