

A family of four lives best in Austin, worse in Boston

Washington — Dollar for dollar, a family of four lives the best in Austin, Texas, among 40 U.S. metropolitan areas surveyed by the government.

On the other hand, New York and Boston are about the worse places for the economically minded, the Labor Department says.

In its annual report on urban family budgets, the department said Wednesday that an average urban family of four must earn $10,481 a year to maintain a low standard of living, 17,106 for a middle standard of living and $25,202 to enjoy a high standard.

The San Francisco-Oakland area is the most expensive area for a family to maintain a low standard of living, requiring an annual income of $11,601 a year.

Living costs in Alaska and Hawaii are much higher than elsewhere in the country, but they are not comparable because of unique transportation costs that drive up the prices of goods.

'Antimatter' discovered

Washington — Scientists have evidence that a surprising amount of "antimatter" may exist in the center of our Milky Way galaxy, which they say could furnish important clues about the formation of the universe.

Physicists said Wednesday that a detector hoisted 130,000 feet aloft by a balloon picked up evidence of increased antimatter activity when pointed toward the galactic center.

ter activity when pointed toward the galactic center.

Drs. Marvin Leventhal of Bell Laboratories said the discovery opens the door to "learning important new things about the high energy processes of the universe."

Murder solved

Melbourne, Australia — Australian homicide detective solved a murder Wednesday that took place 138 years ago.

Last week a skeleton was found in a shallow grave at Bendigo, 100 miles north of Melbourne and, with the help of a local historian, police identified the dead man as James Neill, a shepherd who was speared to death by native aboriginals on a nearby sheep ranch on May 2, 1839.

Reward paid

Pryor, Okla. — A $5,000 reward has been paid to the unidentified source of information leading to the arrest of Gene Leroy Hart, the man accused of slaying three Girl Scouts last summer.

Mayes County Sheriff Pete Weaver says he paid the reward last Thursday but did not deliver it so could not say who received it. Hart was arrested at a shack April 6 by 2 Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation agents.

Host liable

San Francisco — The host of a party can be held liable if a drunken guest injures someone after leaving the gathering, the California Supreme Court has ruled.

The Wednesday ruling expanded liability in alcohol-related lawsuits beyond commercial servers of liquor such as bars and restaurants.

YAF files petition for a continuance

The UNL chapter of the Young Americans for Freedom has filed a petition with the Student Court for a continuance in the suit brought against them by ASUN.

The petition was filed late Thursday afternoon by UNL president Jeff Chizek and YAF legal counsel for the suit, Randall Jauken.

The petition asks for more time in order for the defendants (YAF) to adequately prepare for the trial.

The preparation would include research and study of the law and regulations involved in the trial, the location of witnesses to testify and YAF meetings to determine their course of action.

The petition also states that the large amount of publicity surrounding the case has made it "impossible for these defendants to receive a fair trial because the citizens of this jurisdiction are biased and prejudiced against these defendants."

The petition also states that the general public has formed an opinion that the defendants are guilty due to the publicity and the defendants would be unable to get a fair trial.

The petition states "to make them (YAF) stand trial at this time in this district would deprive them of life and liberty without due process of law in contravention of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution and would deprive them of their right to a fair and impartial trial in contravention of the Six Amendment to the United States Constitution."
