THE BODY HUMAN

'The Body Human: The Vital Connection,' a dramatic informational special which explores the brain and the nervous system through unique photographic techniques, will be broadcast by CBS-TV on Thursday, May 11.

Based on a visual concept which enables the viewer to see himself from a totally unique perspective and through the utilization of electronic photography, 'The Vital Connection' embarks on a journey inside the human brain, where 20 billion nerve cells interconnect at 10 trillion junctures which store over 200 billion memory bits. It focuses on three very different people and their doctors with very different problems relating to their brains and nervous systems.

FUTUREWORLD

It's another classic battle of man vs. machine when the 1976 science-fiction flick 'Futureworld' makes its network TV debut May 12 on 'The ABC Friday Night Movie.'

Peter Fonda (pictured) and Blythe Danner star in this futuristic action drama, a sequel to the 1973 movie 'Westworld.'

The two play reporters who unearth big trouble while investigating the pleasure-filled playground of Delos, where robots serve the fantasies of the world's wealthy and powerful.

It seems that the scientists (Arthur Hill and John Ryan) have hatched a diabolical plot to repopulate and control the world with lookalike robots with which they are gradually replacing their exclusive clientele. Our two protagonists stumble upon the scheme and now their time—at least as human beings—is running out.

Yul Brynner also stars in a reprise of his 'Westworld' role as a gunslinging android.
