Chagall's life story will be the theme of a documentary at the Sheldon Film Theatre, July 20-23.

'Homage to Chagall' at Sheldon Film Theatre

The film, Homage to Chagall: The Colours of Love, is an exploration of the life and work of the artist, Marc Chagall.

This documentary is not only a study of the artist's paintings, stained glass, tapestries, mosaics, poems and writings, but also gives a personal side of Chagall in an on-screen conversation with the French artist.

Harry Raskey, the Canadian documentarian, spent two years making the film, working in the several museums and speaking with Chagall in his home in southern France.

The film deals with Chagall's life as an early painter and his struggles in Paris, his return to Russia to marry his childhood sweetheart, and their return to France, as well as his later life.

The major part of the film is devoted to Chagall's work from his earliest paintings to those of today. The camera also takes us into his study, where he is shown painting a huge canvas depicting the four seasons, which he has recently completed.

The film will be showing at the Sheldon Film Theatre July 20-23 at 7 and 9:15 p.m. Matinees are July 21-23 at 3 p.m.
