

UNL law building to get a new name

The UNL College of Law building will be re-dedicated Friday in the name of Ross McCollum, California oilman and benefactor of many institutions of higher learning, including UNL.

McCollum will be present at the 4:30 p.m. ceremony at the Law College, at which a dedicatory plaque in his name will be unveiled. Among those who will speak at the event will be Warren Urbom, chief judge, U.S. District Court for the district of Nebraska; Richard Knudsen, past president of the Nebraska State Bar Association, and Roy Young, UNL chancellor.

A 1917 graduate of the University of California-Berkeley, McCollum organized and founded the National Oil Company in 1933, serving as company president and general manager until his retirement from active management in 1974.

In addition to providing leadership for the National Oil Company, McCollum was involved in additional petroleum and land ventures. He was active in various West Coast petroleum-related organizations, including the Conservation Committee of the California Oil Producers Association and the Western Oil and Gas Association.

you haven't had a procto lately?

Procto: an everyday way of saying proctoscopic examination.

It's a simple diagnostic test for cancer of the colon and rectum.

And it helps save more lives than any other step in the checkup.

So, if you're over 40, you should have a procto as part of your health examination.

Just think of it as a regular part of living.
