

Beta escorts protect UNL women

If a woman dreads walking alone across a dark campus, who can she call on for help? On the UNL city campus, she can contact Beta Theta Pi fraternity, and one of its members will escort her.

Beta Theta Pi, 1515 R Street, began its escort service in the last few weeks of the 1977-78 school year. The service was re-established in the second week of this semester.

"I got the idea by talking to girls I knew on campus. We knew there was a problem and thought we'd try to do something about it," said Tom Pflug, who suggested the service.

A woman may call the fraternity a half hour to 45 minutes before she wants to be met. She should leave her name, the time she wants to meet, and where she is going.

"We also ask her to let us know when she is coming back so one of us can be there to accompany her home," said Pflug.

Escorts are fraternity members who wish to participate and who have the time, according to Pflug.

The escort service is operated between 6:30 and 10:30 in the evening. Said Pflug, "I don't think we've ever had anyone call after 10:30."

Only women living on campus are accompanied, because members escort on foot.

"We can't go meet girls off campus because we don't have the resources," emphasized Pflug. If a woman lives off campus, a fraternity member will escort her to her car.

"Last year the response was mild because there wasn't a lot of time left in the semester, Pflug said. "This year we've had fair to moderate use of the service. We escort one or two girls a night."

If a woman routinely attends a meeting or class, an arrangement can be made for regular accompaniment.

Protest is planned

Gen. William Westmoreland's appearance Friday will be met by a planned demonstration from the Lincoln Chapter of the Iranian Student Association.

The demonstration, scheduled for 11 a.m. Friday in front of the Nebraska Union, will protest the Shah of Iran, the United States news media and Westmoreland's public lecture, "Vietnam in Perspective."

According to several members of the Iranian association, the demonstration is intended to coincide with Westmoreland's visit.

"We expect about 200 people participating in the demonstration from Lincoln, Omaha, and other towns in Nebraska," said an Iranian demonstration organizer.

The protest, which is basically anti-shah, according to an Iranian student, also will emphasize the media's neglect in reporting recent Iran uprisings, he said.
