

Hubbard returns for speech

William Neill Hubbard Jr., M.D., president of the Upjohn Co., will deliver the second annual Reuben Gilbert Gustavson Memorial Lecture at 3:30 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 9 at UNL.

The Gustavson Lectures were established in recognition of Dr. Gustavson's contributions to education and research. Sponsored by Resources for the Future, Inc., of Washington, D.C., and four universities he served, the lectures will be given annually for 15 years at the University of Arizona, the University of Chicago, the University of Colorado, and UNL.

Gustavson was chancellor of the University of Nebraska from 1946-53.

The subject of the lecture by Hubbard, prepared for a general audience and open to the public, will be "The Relation of Science to the North South Dialogue." It will deal with population, food, and political problems facing North and South America in the years ahead.

Hubbard was dean of the University of Michigan Medical School from 1959-68 and served as director of the University of Michigan Medical Center from 1968-70. He was previously, from 1950-59, a member of the faculty at New York University College of Medicine.

He became a member of the board of directors for the Upjohn Co. in 1968. He was named vice president and general manager of the Pharmaceutical Division in April, 1970, and in 1972 became executive vice president of the firm. He was appointed president of the Upjohn Co. in April, 1974.
