Thanks expressed

I wish to thank all the students and others who came to my husband's assistance when he fell on ice by the fountain in back of the union Monday, Nov. 20—especially the person who so quickly called the ambulance and all those who tried to comfort him with their coats, blankets, etc. until the ambulance arrived. Thank you very much!

peace to the Middle East because stronger than the will to exist is the will to be free.

The Palestinian people are homeless in their own land. The "Palestinian problem" is the root cause and the only key to the solution of the Arab-Israeli conflict. The Palestinians must be allowed to their rights of self-determination in their own land: not shot down and intimidated off of their land and homes into refugee camps.

The U.S. Government must work for an equitable peace in Palestine. The U.S. and other developed countries play a big role in maintaining Israel's military advantage. They do this not because they are sympathetic with the Jewish people, but simply because it serves their political and corporate interests in the Middle East.

Bonfire sparks

Although I don't condone all of what happened at the pre-Oklaoma bonfire, I do feel I must address Miss Clark's November 27th "comment" in the Letters column. My advice to her: excessive maturity is one of the greater attributes of immaturity. Think about it and decide if you should really be in college.

Additionally, Miss Clark has made a direct accusation against the fraternity mentioned in her letter. A good number of people do not know if this "occurrence" (stolen property) is true or not. I hope that Miss Clark for her own sake and credibility can substantiate her said accusation should she be questioned about it further.

Palestinian problem

The Palestinian problem has not been adequately covered by our news media. That is why people don't understand the implications of Camp David. The Camp David agreement represents no resolution of the Palestinian problem and therefore will mean only a stronger agreement to repress the Palestinians. This will never bring
