

CHRISTMAS GIFT CERTIFICATES
 Any Size
 Sculptured Nails $20
 Now thru Christmas
always friendly service!!
REDKIN SALON
CiCi BOUTIQUE
 467-1045
 4345 North 61st Street
 (Havelock Area)
 Connie Zehr, Owner

About 75 Arab and Iranian students joined together Friday for a demonstration march to support the establishment of a democratic Palestinian state, and express disagreement with the Camp David peace agreements.

Photo by Ted Kirk

Soviet Union treaty needed—lobbyist

By Peter Aussenhus

Unless a new SALT treaty with the Soviet Union is approved by the Senate early next year, U.S.-Soviet relations will tailspin, and an unrestricted arms race will exist, according to Stanford Gottlieb, arms reduction coordinator for New Directions.

New Directions is a Washington-based citizen's lobby, founded in 1976, focusing on such global issues as the arms race, the spread of nuclear weapons, energy shortages, population pressures and hunger.

Gottlieb spoke at the First Plymouth Congregational Church Friday under the sponsorship of Americans for SALT, a coalition of organized leaders and prominent individuals working in a national campaign to support the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty.

Gottlieb cited four possible effects if the agreement is not passed: 1) there will be a tailspin in U.S.-Soviet relations, 2) there will be an unrestricted arms race, 3) nuclear war danger will increase and 4) both countries will spend more money and generate inflation.

Gottlieb estimates that the United States will spend $100 billion more without SALT.

"The treaty won't end the arms race, and yet there is opposition to it," Gottlieb said. "The treaty will place equal ceilings on the numbers of U.S. and Russian strategic delivery vehicles—missiles and bombers—for carrying nuclear weapons."

False assumptions

"Opposition is based on two false assumptions, that the Soviet Union is so evil that we should have no treaty agreement with them, and that the more arms you have the more security you have," he said.

Gottlieb said that we have no alternative but to have arms treaties with the Soviets. "They are the only country that can destroy us and we are the only country that can destroy them."

"In 1945 the United States was completely safe, and in 1978 we could be destroyed in a matter of minutes because of a nuclear war. The U.S. and the Soviet Union both have far more destructive power than they need for deterrence, and the notion of being "number one" or "number two" has lost its meaning," according to Gottlieb.

Main factors

Gottlieb said there are three main factors that should decide the fate of SALT II. They are the state of U.S.-Soviet relations at the time, President Carter's credibility on foreign policy at the time, and the provisions of the treaty.

"The overall balance in Congress has shifted slightly and it's going to be more difficult to pass SALT II," Gottlieb said. "It looks like it's almost half undecided, if they break the way I think it will be an even vote. I would guess one vote either way," he added.

One of the advantages he sees in the ratification of the treaty would be that it opens talks on SALT III, which would be more involved with crackdowns on armaments.

Opinion polls such as Gallup and Harris show over 70 percent of the American people favoring a new nuclear arms treaty. At the time, Gottlieb added, a large majority of Americans are distrustful of the Russians.

Gottlieb worked on behalf of the nuclear test ban treaty, a negotiated settlement in Vietnam, reduced military spending and mutual disarmament.

short stuff

The UNL grounds dept. is sponsoring a brown bag luncheon featuring speakers Bud Dasenbrock, director of the UNL Grounds Dept. and Kim Todd, UNL landscape architect, today at 12:30 p.m. in the Nebraska Union. Room number will be posted.

The Overseas Opportunity Center is sponsoring an orientation travel workshop today at 4 p.m. and at 7 p.m. in the union. Room number will be posted.

The American Association of University Professors will meet Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in the union. Room number will be posted.

The UNL Young Democrats will meet at 7 p.m. in the union. Room number will be posted.

The Association of Computing Machinery will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Ferguson 217. Two representatives from Union Pacific will speak on computer graphics.

Monday Madness!

Regular (12")
 Pizza
 with pepperoni, mushrooms or ground beef
 plus TWO 16 oz. Colas
Only $3.25

save $1.50

611 N. 27th
 Lincoln
 475-7672

Pizza Co.
 fast free delivery*

*Franchise area only No other coupons accepted.

0 to 530 in seconds.

The F-4 Phantom. It can reach 30,000 feet in 60 seconds. If that sounds like your speed, maybe you can be one of us.

The Marines PLC Air Program guarantees flight school after basic training. And if you qualify, we can put you in the air before college graduation with free civilian flying lessons. Contact your Marine representative at the Nebraska Union 225 on 4, 5, & 6 December 1978.

The Few. The Proud. The Marines.

or call collect 346-5022, Omaha

Percentage corrected

In Friday's Consumer Byline column, a clinic counselor was incorrectly quoted as saying that the contraceptive Encare Oval was 99 percent effective in actual use. Encare Oval's actual-use effectiveness is 90 percent.

daily nebraskan

Publication No. 144080
 Editor in chief: Carla Engstrom. Managing editor: Betsie Ammons. News editors: John Minnick and E.K. Casaccio. Associate news editor: L. Kent Wolgamott. Night news editor: Jeff Unger. Layout editor: Liz Beard. Entertainment editor: Casey McCabe. Sports editor: Jim Kay. Photography chief: Ted Kirk. Art director: Jack Raglin. Magazine editor: Amy Lenzen. Magazine managing editor: Mary Jo Howe.
 Copy editors: Jill Denning, Deb Emery, Kim Hachiya, Lynn Paustian, Sue Schaecher, Deb Shanahan, Margaret Stafford and George Wright.
 Business manager, Jerri Haussler. Production manager: Kitty Policky. Advertising manager: Denise Jordan. Assistant advertising manager: Pete Huestis.
 The Daily Nebraskan is published by the UNL Publications Board on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday during fall and spring semesters, except during vacations.
 Address: Daily Nebraskan, Nebraska Union 34, 14th and R streets, Lincoln, Neb. 68588. Telephone: 472-2588.
 Material may be reprinted without permission if attributed to the Daily Nebraskan, except material covered by a copyright. Second class postage paid at Lincoln, Neb. 68510.

Tis the season to be in style.

Hairstyles for men & women
 Hair care is special at

The Clipper
 124 N. 12TH
 432-4214