Speakers explore energy choices

Alternative forms of energy will be the subject of speakers sponsored by the Nebraska University Public Interest Research Group (NUPIRG) during March.

The first speaker, Robert Broman, associate professor of chemistry, spoke Friday on the general energy problem and defined the limits of the energy crisis.

The second speech will be by Alan Zebards of the Underground Space Association. He will talk on energy conservation and underground housing alternatives.

Energy problems on small farms will be the subject of the third speech by Ron Krupicka. This speech will be on East Campus.

Solar energy will be covered by Ed Anderson in the fourth speech. Anderson will discuss solar collectors, panels and other technological solutions.

Ed Dworak, from the State Energy Office will talk about what Nebraskans can and are doing about the energy problem. Sen. Don Wesely will join Dworak in this speech.

Jim Krueger, environmental director of NUPIRG coordinated the speeches and advertising along with Midwest Energy Alternatives.

"I'm real concerned about the energy problem and wanted to inform the campus about the problem and what they can do," said Krueger. The speeches will take place each Friday in the Nebraska Union small auditorium.

A career in law—without law school.

After just three months of study at The Institute for Paralegal Training in exciting Philadelphia, you can have a stimulating and rewarding career in law or business — without law school.

As a lawyer's assistant you will be performing many of the duties traditionally handled only by attorneys. And at The Institute for Paralegal Training, you can pick one of seven different areas of law to study. Upon completion of your training, The Institute's unique Placement Service will find you a responsible and challenging job in a law firm, bank or corporation in the city of your choice.

The Institute for Paralegal Training is the nation's first and most respected school for paralegal training. Since 1970, we've placed over 2,500 graduates in over 85 cities nationwide.

If you're a senior of high academic standing and looking for an above average career, contact your Placement Office for an interview with our representative.

We will visit your campus on:
