UNL School of Journalism programs get accreditation

The UNL journalism school and its program sequence have been accredited for the next six years by the American Council on Education for Journalism.

R. Neale Copple, journalism school director, said the school was accredited as a unit, including the graduate program and it is the second school in the country to be so accredited. The four-year-old graduate program was accredited for the first time, he added.

The council is made up of journalism professionals from newspapers and television and educators from other institutions. It sets journalism accreditation standards, and reviews journalism schools to see if they meet those standards.

Journalism professor Jack Botts said the council visited UNL's journalism school on March 14-16. They talked to students and professors and visited classes, he said.

The school found out at the end of last week that they would be accredited.

Show recounts Omaha tornado

Proper safety procedures in the event of a tornado will be shown on Tornado: Take Cover, 6 p.m., May 7, on the Nebraska Educational Television Network.

The program will repeat May 12 at 12:30 p.m.

Practical procedures for personal safety are shown in the 30-minute program. Precautions to take in homes, office buildings, hospitals, schools, rural areas, mobile homes also are shown.

Included in the programs are filmed segments taken by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration showing the destruction of tornadoes that have struck the Midwest. Film footage of the 1975 Omaha tornado recounts the effect of the disaster had on Nebraska's metropolitan area.

See you in the Fall!

A short course in Bonded Bourbon.

History lesson: in 1897, Congress passed the Bottled-in-Bond Act which established the standards for Old Grand-Dad and other Bonded whiskeys. Old Grand-Dad is still bottled in Bond under U.S. government supervision.

100 is perfect. Bonded Bourbon must be 100 proof. No more. No less.

Final exam. You need only one sip to recognize the clearly superior quality and taste of Old Grand-Dad. Cheers!

Old Grand-Dad Bonded is authentic Kentucky sour-mash Bourbon, made with clear limestone water, the finest grains, and aged in new charred-oak barrels.

Only Bonded whiskeys have a green tax stamp. It's your guarantee that the whiskey is at least four years old. Old Grand-Dad Bonded is always aged longer.

Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey. 100 proof. Bottled in Bond. Old Grand-Dad Distillers Co., Frankfort, Ky. 40601.
