Parking meter loss is insanity - doctor

By Gordone Johnflush

If plans to place the new Alumni Association Center in front of Nebraska Union go ahead, UNL may see an increase in insanity, a health official said Tuesday.

Ronald Mortz, head of the student health center said removal of the 180 parking meters would be cruel and unusual punishment to UNL faculty.

The Alumni Association has asked for approval of a plan which would call for the removal of a metered parking lot in front of the union to accommodate a new Alumni Association Center.

According to Mortz, if the plans go through, the university can expect to have a higher rate of absenteeism of both faculty and students.

People expect to be able to drive up to the door step of their classes and offices, Mortz said.

"It will drive them crazy if they can't drive as close this year as they did last year," Mortz said.

However, Mortz said the problem may not be so severe if we have a mild winter. Most people can take walking a little further in warm weather than in cold he said. If cold weather sets in rapidly the people won't tolerate it, he said.

Mortz said he has heard of and read of other examples of insanity caused by too much walking.

The signs to watch for he said are a listlessness in the quiet people and histrionics in the more outspoken segment of the student body and faculty.

The true danger sign comes when one can be seen driving around the campus for hours looking for a place to park.

The only way to cure these people he said is to install a parking meter in the front of their homes. This gives the afflicted person a sense of security.

"He knows he will always have a slot to park in, unless of course a visitor takes his stall," Mortz said.

To help solve the problem before it reaches epidemic proportions, Mortz suggested that parking meters be installed on the classroom desks.

"This way the university should make a tidy sum and the students and faculty will have their meters," he said.

Meter mania - the wave of the future?

Letters to deranged editor

You guys are great

Dear Summer Nebraskan Staff,
We think you all are wonderful, charming, witty, intelligent, perfect, and all around "good kids."

Love,
Your mothers

I want a grade too

I am writing to complain about the grading procedure at UNL. If President Nixnox can get a B in tape erasing, I should be awarded at least a C in tape cleaning - it's just not fair.

Jimmy Cartery

Manson wants degree

If President Nixnox gets an honorary degree I think I should get one too.

Charles Manson

Dicky not crook

But Charles - "I am not a crook."

Tricky Dick

Fire Cip!

Dear editor,
This is the 100th letter I've written to you requesting the resignation of Basketball Coach Joe Cipionomo. What are you doing in that office?

Al McGuire

Tent great idea

I just want to let you know I think the idea of building a new stadium using a circus tent is a grand idea. On the third Saturday of every month three rings could be brought in to hold the board of rodents meetings.

P.T. Barnum

Make money too

To pay for the rings, lights, and camera crews we could charge admission or set up some kind of side show. We can show other universities how to make some real money.

Howard H.

Slush fund

I attended the Bored of Rodents meeting last weekend and was shocked to hear that Bob Deloney was heading up the slush fund at Oklahoma State. Will that have any effect on the outcome of UNL's Basketball game against Oklahoma State? Could they be bucking for our position of 7th in the Big Eight? And does Coach Cipionomo really have a patent on orange blazers?

John Smith

Book idea

I have a great idea for a book. It will be called "Fear and Loathing on University Campuses." The plot will deal with rising tuition and fees and the plight of a poor student trying to get an education.

Interested? Let me know.

Spiinter Thompson

How high for tuition?

I think the book idea is an excellent one, but just how high should we raise tuition and fees?
