Draft registration may still go to Senate

WASHINGTON—Despite overwhelming defeat in the House, an effort to bring back military draft registration may be put to a vote in the Senate.

The House rejected 252-163 late Wednesday a proposed order to renew draft registration for 18-year-old men starting Jan. 2, 1981. Instead, it directed President Carter to study the situation.

Carter has already said draft registration is not needed now and Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill predicted that with the House vote. "That'll be the end of it." But an aide to Sen. Sam Nunn said he believes the Georgia Democrat still will put a similar bill to renew draft registration to a vote in the Senate.

Neo-Nazis jailed

BUECKEBURG, West Germany—A West German judge sentenced six neo-Nazis Thursday to prison terms of four to 11 years on charges they organized or participated in right-wing criminal activity planned by their American leader.

The prison sentences followed the first major trial of neo-Nazis in this country and came after a government report warned that such groups were adopting terrorist tactics in an effort to overthrow democracy.

After a four-month trial, the court concluded that the six men followed the orders of self-styled U.S. Nazi leader Gary Rex Lauck, of Lincoln.

School starts

CLEVELAND—School officials said they were eager to get on with the business of education as they opened classes today to all of their 90,000 pupils for the first time since a limited busing plan began this week.

Up to 9,500 pupils were scheduled to be bused across town Thursday, with some rides taking more than an hour.
