

DC-9 jetliner makes a safe emergency landing in Boston

BOSTON (AP)—An Air Canada DC-9 jetliner with 42 persons on board lost part of its tail assembly over the Atlantic Ocean Monday and made a safe emergency landing at Boston's Logan International Airport, an airport spokesman said. Authorities said one crewman was slightly injured.

The plane, Flight 680, had departed Boston on its way to Halifax, Nova Scotia, when the assembly was damaged and the plane lost interior pressure.

The jet returned immediately to Boston and touched down at Logan shortly before noon.

Early retirement

DETROIT (AP)—John Riccardo, chairman and chief executive of Chrysler Corp., said Monday he has asked to take early retirement from the financially troubled automaker.

Riccardo, who was in Washington over the weekend as Chrysler was rebuffed in its initial plea for federal aid of more than $1 billion, said the chief reasons for his request were health problems and his links to the company's poor performance.

"There is no question that even though I have actively addressed the major problems facing Chrysler, in the minds of many I am closely associated with the past management of a troubled company," Riccardo said in a statement.

"It would be most unfair to the new management and to the employees of Chrysler if my continued presence as board chairman should in any way hinder the final passage of our request for federal loan guarantees."

Riccardo said his request would be decided at the meeting of the board of directors Sept. 20.

WHAT'S HE GOT... THAT HE HASN'T?

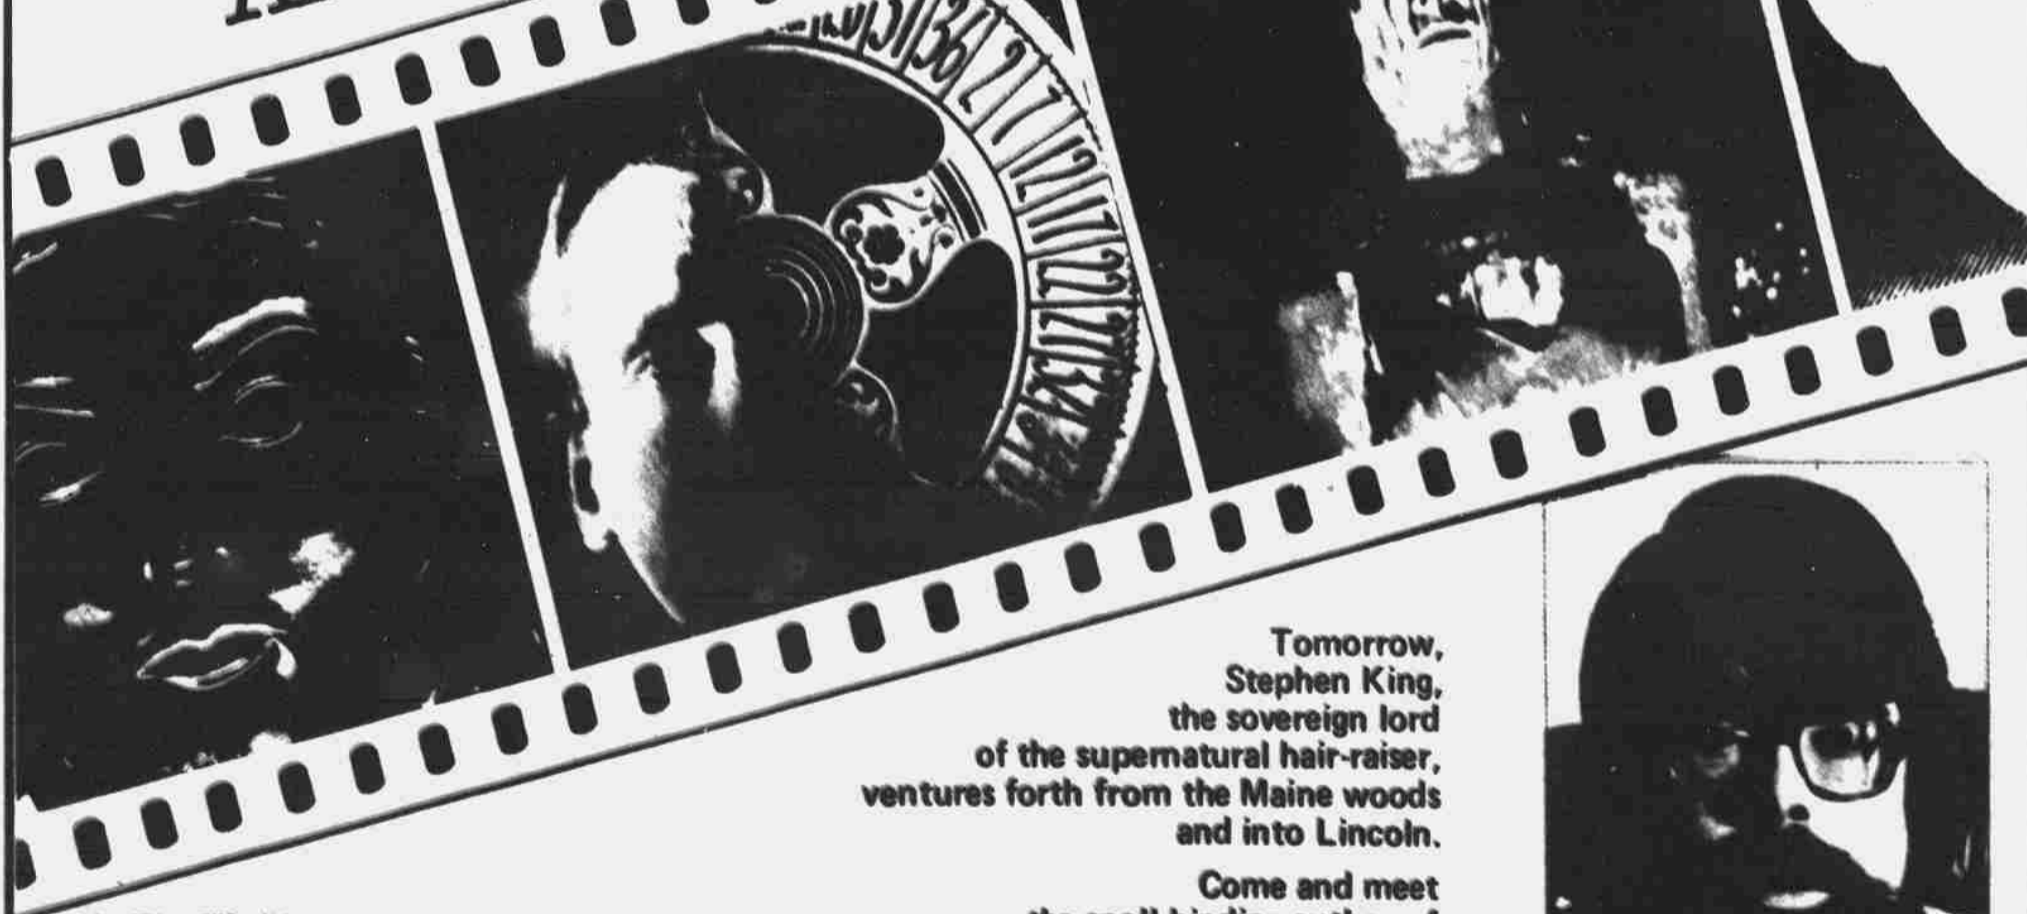

How about "hope?" Lots of people these days do good for other people, and that's great. But this old world is up to its meridians in problems. Can't help but be frustrating. The Christian, however, can be joyful. He has hope. He knows God is running the show. And that it comes out all right in the end. He may not know how, or why, but he knows. The Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) is among those working and knowing.
