

Lincolmites will see Pope

A group of 150 Lincoln and area residents will be leaving early Wednesday morning for Des Moines to attend the public celebration of the mass with Pope John Paul II.

Father Leonard Kalin of the Newman Student Center said the group is still unsure of what the trip will be like.

"With the massive crowds that are going to be there, we're not sure how organized anything will be," Kalin said.

"There have been many more requests to accompany us, but we had to cut off the figures at 150 due to the need for preparation of meals," he said.

The group will arrive in Des Moines at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday and participate in the day's activities before attending Thursday's mass. Iowa bishops will participate along with Pope John Paul II in mass.

Father Kalin added that he is waiting for a letter to confirm a personal invitation to attend another Mass to be held in Philadelphia this weekend.

"I have received a phone call from a bishop with an unofficial invitation, but I am waiting for an official one through the mail," he said.
