

These Selmons UNL wrestlers

Nebraska now can boast about its own set of Selmon brothers.

No, they're not from Oklahoma, and they're not quite as big as the infamous Sooner defensive linemen.

But that doesn't stop their teammates from calling them Dewey and Lewey.

John and Bill Selmon are wrestlers, and said they are "kinda" related to the Selmons many college quarterbacks feared about five years ago.

"My father said he's cousins with one of their uncles—or something like that," Johns said.

The Huskers' Selmons are new to Nebraska and the Big Eight this year after transferring from Grand Rapids Junior College in Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Last year John was the National Junior College Wrestling Champion in his 134 pound weight class, and Bill placed fourth in his 142 pound weight class.

Although Bill is 22 and John is 20, both Selmons are juniors at UNL. Because they wanted to attend college and wrestle together, Paul waited for John to graduate from high school in Mansfield, Ohio, and then talked him into going to the junior college.

Both decided to transfer to Nebraska together, and second year wrestling Coach Bob Fehrs said that suits him just fine.

"They add a lot of character to the team," senior wrestler Ogron Vasha said.

John said they wanted to stay together after wrestling together in high school because "who'll push you more than your brother?"

However, even with all of the "pushing," both brothers said they have never squared off against each other, and both said they never want to.

"It's more of a unity thing. We sit and watch each other wrestle and then criticize each other," Bill said.

Wrestling practice began Sept. 30, and both said although the practice season is long (the first meet isn't until Nov. 9) they are used to the hard work.

"At Nebraska though, I'm learning so much more because here they have a better training technique, better athletes and just better people to wrestle with," Bill said.

John said he thinks Fehrs has done a good job of mixing up practice so it doesn't get boring.

"But it's still getting tougher because we're practicing five days a week now," he said.

Despite the Huskers disappointing season last year, the Selmons said they were excited to come to Nebraska, and said they feel optimistic about the upcoming season.

"We're going to be tough and we're all going to make this team known," Bill said.

Both Selmons said they hope their parents, who still live in Ohio, can make it to Nebraska sometime this year to see them wrestle.

"They were excited about us going to Nebraska too," Bill added.

Schramm wins title

Schramm 3-10 defeated Phi Delta Theta-Delta Gamma in the championship game of the All-University co-rec flag football league by the score of 14-8 Monday night.

Schramm 3-10 finishes the season with a record of 10-0, outscoring their opposition 235-34.

The victors got touchdowns from Donnie Smith and Shelly Hays, while Sue Kobza and Becky Meyer teamed up for a safety late in the game. Schramm's fortunes were helped when they intercepted passes on their opponent's first three possessions. Two were snagged by Michael Ward and the other by Paul Fisher.

The team members for Schramm 3-10 this year were Don Glaser, Vaughn Gebers, Chuck Muckey, Doug Whisenhunt, Mike Washington, Fisher, Dan McMahon, Caileen Svanda, Laura Peter, Jenni Kahl, Smith, Ward, Hays, Meyer, and Kobza. Smith was the offensive coordinator and Ward the defensive coordinator for the squad.

3 CENT
CON

It is no secret that the new Susan B. Anthony slug called a 'dollar costs only 3 cents to produce. If the issuers of this slug can con us to accept 3 cents worth of base metal for $1 worth of our labor, why do they tax us too? When we accept a three cent slug for $1 worth of our labor, we have a 97% loss! Why should we tell IRS that we have a gain? That's a crime!

Why won't IRS or the Dept of Revenue give explicit written permission to pay taxes with copper 'dollars' or with paper 'dollars' or with checks that transfer only a record of dept?

ANSWER: They know that all of those are unconstitutional!

Why are IRS agents forbidden to answer questions on nature of money? Truthful answers would reveal that NO ONE is required to file!

To muse is to think; Amuse means no think; amusements are things intended to keep us from thinking about things that we should think about such as money; taxes and government.
