I suggest that our self-appointed leaders of moral enlightenment, Mr. Chambers and Mr. Brown, ought to broaden their narrow minds and examine oppression throughout the world before they begin to propagate their simplistic solutions among this student body.

Do not despair; change in South Africa will come. Just as the British won the Boer war, but eventually lost power to the Afrikaner majority, so will black rule replace the current minority government. Funny thing, though, when apartheid finally ends after a long and particularly bloody war, oppression, racism and the persecution of ethnic groups will remain in the world.

It might be nice if the students at the "U" decided to make amends and help improve the institution. Cooperation does more than bickering, and despite our varied cultures, opinions and ethnic backgrounds, we should still be friends. For those who disagree, a black classmate of mine from Nigeria advised, "People complain too much around here. No one made them come here. If they don't like it, they can go home."

Don't fly, though. Chances are the aircraft contains chrome from South Africa.

If you can get there the Eureka Timberline will set up there.

The Timberline has a unique Compression Arch Frame that keeps it taut without stakes. So it erects anywhere. Light enough, too, to pack anywhere...and movable even after it's up. For comfort, the Timberline features a wrap-around floor, breathable walls and a waterproof fly. The "A" type door and big rear window provide cross ventilation. See it in 2- and 4-man flame-retardant models
