

DN names senior editors for fall

Fall 1980 Daily Nebraskan senior editors have been named by fall semester Editor-in-chief Randy Essex.

Barb Richardson, a junior from Omaha, will be news editor for the paper. Richardson has served as a copy editor and reporter on the paper for four semesters. She will be a news intern this summer for the Omaha World Herald.

Bob Lannin, a junior from Fremont, will be the fall managing editor. He has served as a reporter, copy editor and night news editor in four semesters at the Daily Nebraskan.

The associate news editor will be Kathy Chenault, a junior from York, who will report for the Lincoln Star until the fall semester starts.

Gordon Johnson and Tom Prentiss will serve as assistant news editors. Johnson is a junior from Lincoln and will intern this summer at the Rapid City Journal. He has been a reporter for three semesters at the Daily Nebraskan, including one semester as Legislative Bureau Chief.

Prentiss has been a reporter and columnist for the Daily Nebraskan, and will be a World Herald news intern during the summer. He is a junior from Arlington Heights, Ill.

Casey McCabe, a senior from Lincoln, will be entertainment editor in the fall. McCabe has served on the entertainment staff for six semesters, including one as entertainment editor. A broadcasting major, McCabe is employed at KRNU, and has written for the Nebraska Voice.

Shelley Smith will return as sports editor for the second semester. Next fall will be Smith's fifth

Students given internships in Washington

UNL students are interning in Washington, D.C. this semester, in placements arranged by UNL's College of Arts and Sciences and the Washington Center for Learning Alternatives, (WCLA), a non-profit educational agency.

"Internships have become an increasingly popular component of a student's curricula, providing an opportunity to integrate academic theory with practice in an applied situation," said Millie Katz, coordinator of the UNL office of experimental education.

Interning in Washington, D.C., are UNL seniors Daniel Wermers of Omaha, with the Democratic National Committee; Jane Starrett of Holdrege, with the 95th New Member's Caucus, and juniors Susan Depue of Anaheim, Calif., with AYUDA; Rick Schmidt of Fremont, with Congressman Doug Bereuter's Capitol Hill office, and Dawn Wadlow of Lincoln.

This summer UNL seniors Susan Braun of Omaha, James Ruby of Lisco, Mari Lane of Lincoln, and Cindy Johnson of Potter, will go to Washington.

Also interning this summer will be juniors Kathy Lutz of Beatrice, Wendy Wysong of Lincoln, Rosann Park of Lincoln, and Ronald Lamb of Fremont.

semester on the paper. The junior from Vail, Colo. served as a reporter and sports writer before taking over as sports editor.

Mark Billingsley, a senior from Lincoln, will serve as photo chief for his third semester. A stringer for the Associated Press, Billingsley has been on the staff for four years.

Dave Luebke will be next fall's art director, after working as a staff artist for two semesters. Luebke is a sophomore from Lincoln.

Kim Hachiya will be First Down editor during the fall. Hachiya is a second year law student and former sports writer and columnist for the Daily Nebraskan. Next fall will be her seventh semester on the paper. She is a Lincoln native.

Fathom editor will be Diane Andersen, a junior from Lincoln who has been on the Daily Nebraskan staff for four semesters. She will be a World Herald news intern.
