

ASUN...

The resolution further stated that ASUN would advocate increased funding to support expansion of ethnic and women studies courses.

A variety of different courses are offered under women and ethnic studies, as the two areas are not classes themselves, according to Senate members.

The Senate heard from a member of the Chicano graduate Studies Association supporting the resolution. Dolores Cardona said requiring students to take the courses would be "economically sound because a lot of jobs require the ability to get along with other people."

She said the courses would increase understanding of minority problems, adding that students with a broader base of understanding become "more marketable."

Doreen Charles, president of the African Peoples Union agreed.

"This is concerned with every day living," Charles said. "You can't say you've learned this or that in the different colleges, if you can't deal with people outside your culture," she said.

Some senators opposed adopting the resolution because it did not specify the procedure by which the courses would become requirements.

'What's NU' features opinions of students

The "clients" give their views about NU on What's NU?, broadcast Sept. 26, at 8 p.m. on the Nebraska Educational Television Network.

Students from all three campuses of the NU system speak out about their education at the institution, offering diverse opinions.

What's NU? is a new locally produced weekly series, demonstrating how the total university system touches the lives of Nebraskans wherever they live. Host of the new series is Jim Raglin, NU director of public affairs.

These two TI calculators can help you handle courses in math, in science, or business. Now, and in the real world.

One real-world lesson you'll learn in school is the importance of productivity. Time you spend doing the math part of the problem is time you can't spend learning concepts.

A Texas Instruments professional calculator will help make your study time more productive. And it can also help you move into the world of a professional. A world where knowing the concept is only part of the solution. Bringing out the answer requires a working knowledge of a powerful personal calculator.

Economical TI Business Analyst-I with Statistics and advanced business functions.

Pre-programmed with business functions for time-value of money, statistics, profit margin. And other problems you'll encounter in business school. Other capabilities include percent, squares, logs, and powers. Its 140-page book, "Keys to Money Management" (a $4.95 value), has step-by-step instructions plus sample problems. It's an extra value with every BA-I.

The TI-55 advanced slide rule with statistics and programmability.

This capable calculator has AOS™ easy entry system, statistical functions, 10 memories, 9 levels of parenthesis, trig, powers and roots, plus programmability. Its book, "Calculator Decision Making Sourcebook" (a $4.95 value), helps you get all the power pre-programmed into the TI-55.

See the whole line of TI calculators at your college bookstore or other retailer.
