Freshman gain 539 yards against Cowboy JVs

The Nebraska freshman football team racked up 539 total yards offense, and kept Oklahoma State's junior varsity team to a minus four yards rushing, soundly crushing the Cowboys 62-7 in Stillwater, Okla. Friday.

Husker Quarterback Turner Gill completed four of 10 passes for 131 yards and one touchdown. He carried the ball eight times for 82 yards and two touchdowns.

Three different Husker players: Gill, Dan Ripa, and Ryan Went, all accounted for two touchdowns each. Gill scored his from 42 and five yards, Ripa from 28 and five yards and Went from eight and three yards.

Dave Burke scored on a two-yard run, and Scott Porter scored on a one-yard run to account for the rest of the Husker point totals. Kicker Todd Sorenson was seven of eight on extra points.

The Husker defense allowed OSU 142 yards passingcombined with the minus four yards rushing-for 138 yards total offense, with only 11 first downs.

Husker Freshman Coach Frank Solich said he was pleased with the win, crediting Gill as a great thrower, runner and leader.

He said the defense was aggressive and confident, things he already knew about the defense, but which needed to be shown in a game.

The lone Oklahoma State score came late in the first half resulting from a 60-yard drive, when Cowboy JV quarterback Russ Hilger found Mike Kilmer in the
