

Bereuter...

People at the banquet in the NBC ballroom numbered in the hundreds, compared to the dozens at Story's hotel room.

Bereuter said he was pleased, but surprised, with Reagan's landslide victory and the fact that so many Republican seats had been picked up in the Senate and Congress.

"It seems the 'time for a change' theme is working and is viable," Bereuter said.

He said the Republican gains would make his work easier by evening the odds in Congress.

"This should ease the great majority the Democrats have held for so long," Bereuter said.

Nebraska Gov. Charles Thone, present at the celebration, said he was pleased with the Republican party's winnings, but said he didn't expect such a great sweep.

When asked what he thought the Republican gains would do for Nebraska, Thone replied that "it's going to be great for America."

"There's been a great lack of leadership in Washington and of course Americans are responding to that."

After it was announced that Bereuter was leading by 70 percent in 10 counties and 85 percent in Lancaster County, Bereuter thanked all the people who voted to "send me back to Congress."

Bereuter said he expected to win all counties by a wide margin and thanked not only Republican voters but Democrats and Independents.

"One thing I make clear to my people in Washington is that no questions will ever be asked about party affiliations as long as I'm in office," Bereuter said.

He said he didn't think the problems Reagan will inherit necessarily will mean a one-term presidency and said he was glad that there would be a better balance in Congress. He added that Reagan and Bush should be able to work with Congress much better.

As for the lame duck session now coming up, Bereuter said, "Our only protection might be filibusters. I hope it doesn't come to that but it may."

"I intend to be the best congressman this district has ever had," Bereuter said to the cheers of his supporters.

NU regent races are too close to predict

NU Board of Regents were up for election Tuesday in two of the eight regent districts. Incumbent Robert Simmons of Scottsbluff was challenged by James Zimmerman, an attorney from Gering, Neb., for District 6.

In District 7, where Regent Robert Raum of Minden did not seek re-election for the six-year term, Don Blank, a dentist from McCook, ran against John Payne, of Payne-Larson Furniture in Kearney, Neb.

With half of the returns in late Tuesday night, both races for District 6 and 7 were running too close to predict a winner for the nonsalaried post.

At 11:30 p.m. CST, Simmons was leading Zimmerman, 15,159 to 13,425 with just 45 percent of the vote tabulated in 352 of the precincts.

In District 7, Blank was leading Payne 14,208 to 13,450 with 40.7 percent of the vote tabulated from 327 precincts.

Story said he thought he was well supported by the Democratic party.

"I knew I wouldn't get the financial resources from the Democratic party," Story said. "But they were very helpful."

He said he ran because he saw the need for a Democratic candidate.

"If I see the need I will run again. Story said he felt good about the campaign. "If you went out and didn't give it your best shot, that's when you'd feel bad. But we did good."
